Scranton Union Activities Under Probe Tomorrow

Senate Committee to Inquire About Dynamiting in 1954

SCRANTON, Pa. (UP) — Certain union activities in this Northeast Pennsylvania anthracite community come under the scrutiny of the Senate Labor Rackets Committee in Washington Tuesday.

On the basis of persons known to have been subpenaed to testify in Washington, it was believed much of the Committee's attention will be focused on:

—The dynamiting in 1954 of a home under construction in North Scranton by a non-union contractor.

—Recent federal indictments stemming from alleged fraud in construction of the 383-million Army Signal Corps depot in nearby Tobyhanna.

—Elections involving officers of the local Teamster's union.

Four members of locals involved in construction trades were convicted of conspiracy to damage the home which was dynamited and four other union men confessed to having a part in the blast, which occurred May 1, 1954.

The four men convicted and scheduled to appear before the committee in Washington are:

Joseph Bartell, president of the Scranton Building Trades Council and business agent of Local 261, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

Philip F. Brady, vice president of the Building Trades Council and business manager of local 81, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Anthony Boncuse, trustees of the Building Trades Council and business agent of local 130, International Hod Carriers Building and Common Laborers Union

John A. Durkin, regional vice president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, financial secretary-treasurer of the Scranton Central Labor union and business manager of local 229, General Drivers and Helpers Union, a Teamster's affiliate.

Edward Pozusek of Wilkes-Barre Twp., constructor of the home which was damaged by the blast, also has been subpenaed. Pozusek claimed he was threatened with "trouble" unless union workmen were employed at the job.

Another man under subpena is Paul Bradshaw, former steward of local 229 and a convicted dynamiter, who testified at the trial of the four labor leaders, that they "ordered" him to "damage" the partially constructed home by "pushing over a wall, or some other means."

Bradshaw's friend, Mrs. Helen Canfield, and his sister, Mrs. Margaret Kollra, also have been subpenaed to appear. It was reported that two confessed dynamiters, Robert Hubschman and William Munley, also have been subpenaed to testify this week.

New Kensington Man Hangs Self In Charleroi Jail

A 41-year-old New Kensington man, Thomas Short, was found hanged in a cell at the Charleroi jail yesterday about 24 hours after he was arrested on suspicion of shoplifting.

Frank McKenna, desk sergeant at the station, said he entered Short's cell block last night about 6:25 to ask what he wanted for supper and found Short's body hanging by a belt.

He was pronounced dead by Dr J. J. Buch.

Short was arrested Saturday night about 7.30 on a suspicion of larceny charges. Police alleged he took a transistor radio valued at $13.75 from Household Appliance at 616 Fallowfield Ave., Charleroi.

Police said he was being sought by Allegheny County police authorities for a parole violation.

West End Safe Cut by Torches

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Burglars using acetylene torches cut open a safe in the West End district during the week end and took $18,000.

Inspector Frank Keefe said the thieves broke into a bakery shop adjoining the Giant Eagle Market and then smashed their way through a concrete block wall into the grocery. Making their way to the office containing the safe, the thugs leisurely cut the door from the strong box.

Donora Railroad Brotherhood Wins Arbitration Case

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (BLE) has won an arbitration decision which will place firemen on diesel engines for the first time in the open hearth department of U. S. Steel's American Steel & Wire Division plant in Donora.

The decision was announced Saturday in Washington by Paul N. Guthrie, chairman of the aribitration panel which included Atty. Harold McLaughlin, Cleveland, representing the BLE, and James Orr, representing the Donora Southern Railroad which serves the Donora mill.

Orr dissented from the decision, Guthrie announced.

The decision upheld the BLE which contended that the operation of the "dinky" locomotives was "unsafe" without firemen because of the "inability of engineers to keep a constant look-out from their side of the cab in rounding curves leading to the open hearth department."

The company charged "featherbedding" and stated firemen never had been employed on this type of locomotive.

The dispute last November caused a three-week strike which idled 80 members of BLE Division 164 and some 5,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO).

Steel Railroad Strike Averted By Settlement

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A strike of maintenance employes of United States Steel Corporation's Union Railroad scheduled for today was averted by an 11th hour settlement of a contract dispute between the management and the United Steelworkers.

Terms of the agreement, reached Saturday night in a top-level conference between USW President David J. McDonald and Union Railroad President Fred W. Okie, were not disclosed.

The 1,100 maintenance workers had threatened to walkout if the railroad company did not match the agreement reached between the USW and the steel industry after a five-week strike last summer. The railroad offered a contract patterned after its existing agreements with the Railway Brotherhoods.

The railroad serves U.S.Steel's five big plants in the Monongahela Valley. The steel company, which had started banking its iron-making blast furnaces in anticipation of a walkout, said settlement of the rail dispute would permit continuation of normal operations in the finishing departments.

Top U. S. Contractors Are Listed

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Defense Department today made public a new list of 100 firms getting the heaviest share of defense contracts and General Motors Corp. came up number one as usual.

GM, the new report showed, received $6,965,300,000 in military contracts between July, 1950, when the Korean War started the defense production boom, and June 30, 1956.

Total military orders in that period were $140,358,800,000 of which 63 per cent, or $88,369,600,000, went to the 100 companies and their 207 subsidiaries on today's list.

While General Motors headed the six-year list, it was far down on a list of 100 top contractors for the January, 1955-June, 1956, period, reflecting the shift of military emphasis to aircraft, guided missiles and electronics from ammunition, vehicles and other Korean-war type needs.

Jet Planes High

On the 18 - month list, North American Aviation, manufacturer of jet fighter planes and rocket motors, stood at the top.

The Defense Department pointed out that "a very substantial proportion" of the contracts in the 100-company list is passed on to other companies in the form of subcontracts.

The top 10 companies on the six year list have received 31.5 per cent of total military orders they are besides General Motors:

Boeing Airplane Co., $6,175,700,000; the United Aircraft Corp., $5,151,100,000; General Electric Co., $4,785,500,000; Douglas Aircraft Co., $4,293,200,000; North American Aviation $4,180,800,000; General Dynamics Corp., $4,074,900,000; Lockheed Aircraft Corp., $3,552,700,000; American Telephone & Telegraph Co., $2,504,900,000; and Curtiss - Wright Corp., $2,404,600,000. Number 100 was Stewart-Warner Corp with total contracts of $136,000,000.

Red Ship Tours Panama Canal

BALBOA, C.Z. (UP)—The sugar-laden Russian freighter Nicolai Ostrovsky, with armed U.S. Marines standing guard over its crew, passed through the Panama Canal in near-record time this week end.

The ship, enroute home from Cuba, arrived at Cristobal at 4:43 a.m. Saturday and nosed into the canal at 11 a.m. It reached the canal's Pacific terminus in 7 hours and 43 minutes—better than average time.

Crewmen of the freighter were required to turn their cameras in to its captain, Vladimir Skalkin, during the passage. Eighteen armed Marines boarded the ship in Cristobal and stayed with it through the canal.

Skalkin protested the security precautions.

"Japanese ships don't have soldiers aboard," he said. "German ships don't have soldiers. Why should my ship have soldiers?"

13 Hurt Over Weekend In Three Auto Crashes

Thirteen persons were injured in the three weekend motor accidents reported today by State Police.

Twelve persons were taken to Monongahela Memorial Hospital last night following a two-car accident on Route 51 near Elizabeth

The injured included William J. Burke Jr., 26, Pittsburgh, operator of one car; Jane Moody, 24, Mount Oliver, Pittsburgh, Mrs. Madelyn Shade, 44, Mount Oliver, John Shade, 14, and Thomas Shade, 16, Mount Oliver, all passengers in the Burke auto; Genevieve Hann, 39, Connellsville, driver of the second car; her husband, Alvin Hann, 43, Mrs. Hazel Silbaugh, 56, North Manor, Connellsville, Ralph W. Silbaugh, 16, Connellsville; Elizabeth Cameron, 45, Scottdale, Marian Warrick, 47, Scottdale, and Alvie Silbaugh, 50, North Manor, Connellsville, all passengers in the Hann vehicle.

State police said only Mrs. Silbaugh was seriously injured. She sustained a concussion and other head injuries. The others were treated for multiple lacerations and bruises.

The mishap occurred when a car driven by Burke veered out of control, left the highway to the right, returned to the roadway and entered the opposite lane of traffic, where it encountered the Hann auto, a 1957 sedan. Loss was estimated at $5,000.

IDLE SATURDAY CAUSES MAIL BACKLOG — Monessen mailmen weren't busy Saturday because of the postal cutback but they certainly made up for it today as they processed Saturday's, Sunday's and today's mail this morning. Getting mail ready for distribution were, l. to r., Myron Kunka, John Demchak and Joseph Puskar. Postmaster Edward Januszewski said he "doesn't know yet" if the post office will be closed again this Saturday.

House Begins Work on Funds To Give Normal Postal Service

WASHINGTON (UP) — More reductions in postal service went into effect today, but congressional leaders expected normal service would be restored by next Saturday.

The service cutbacks by Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield brought charges by the House Democratic leader that Summerfield is an "arrogant" man who's "trying to make himself a knight on a white horse."

The House was scheduled to begin work on a 41 million dollar emergency appropriation for the Post Office Department to permit a return to full service.

Awaiting Money Bill

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) predicted both houses will clear the measure in time for restoration of service by Saturday, although he declined to forecast its approval by the House today. Members of Congress might be off to a baseball game, he said.

He charged Summerfield with being "arrogant," "domineering" and "guilty of contempt of the American people" for not canceling the cutbacks last Friday.

A Post Office Department spokesman said full service can be restored "within 24 hours" after the money bill is passed by both houses and signed by President Eisenhower.

With Saturday postal deliveries cancelled and post offices shut down on Saturdays until the money is voted, these two new cutbacks went into effect today:

—Post Office windows were reduced to 8½ hours a day service everywhere. They normally are open 10 - 11 hours in most areas and up to 24 hours in some of the bigger post offices. In most post offices windows opened today at 9:30 a.m. local time and closed at 6 p.m.

Crippled Nurse Admits Shooting Friend, Herself

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (UP)—A permanently crippled nurse admitted to police today that she shot and seriously wounded her nurse-companion and then shot herself.

Marie Betty Thimons, 36, who was awarded $150,000 for injuries suffered in a street car accident 10 years ago and has been confined to a wheel chair since, and her companion, Jane Hoffman, both were reported in serious condition in Citizens General Hospital.

Police said Miss Thimons told them she shot Miss Hoffman early Sunday because "she mistreated me." After wounding her nurse in the right side, the invalid fired shots into her own chest and abdomen.

The two women met while working at McKeesport Hospital in 1945 and became close friends. After Miss Thimons was injured when she was caught between a street car and her automobile in Sharpsburg, Miss Hoffman became her companion and they toured the country together.

According to Miss Thimons' family, friction between them started about three years ago. Miss Hoffman was no longer paid for caring for Miss Thimons, although she continued to live with her.

Police said that Miss Hoffman, who worked part time at Citizens General Hospital, had threatened several times to leave the home shared by the two women.

British Columbia Home Is Destroyed

VICTORIA, B.C. (UP)—A predawn fire today destroyed Government House, the ornate home of British Columbia lieutenant-governors since 1898.

The 10 persons in the building when the blaze broke out at 4:14 a.m. escaped in their night clothes without injury. They included Lt.-Gov. and Mrs. Frank M. Ross, seven maids and a Chinese cook.

Two Ford City Teen-agers in 110-mile Chase

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (UP)—Two Ford City, Pa., teen-agers who were captured after a 110-mile an hour police chase, were held in Mahoning County jail today on charges of attempted holdup.

According to police, the boys, aged 14 and 15, slugged a Youngstown grocer, Joseph De Vito, with a pistol Sunday but fled without loot, leaving the man lying on the floor of his establishment.

The grocer's daughter, Mrs. Mary Berasi, entered the store as the boys were driving away and noted the license number of the automobile they were driving. She telephoned police.

Police in three squad cars gave chase and opened fire on the fugitives' machine. Seven miles across the Pennsylvania border, the boys stopped after a bullet struck their car, which police said they had stolen earlier in the day at Brick Church, near Kittanning, Pa.

Tax Return Deadline At Midnight Tonight

WASHINGTON (UP)—The tax collector is supposed to have your return in hand by midnight tonight. But Uncle Sam will count you in safe this year if you get it as far as the post office by that deadline.

The mail situation being as it is today, that's about all anyone could ask of the nation's 60 million taxpayers.

Technically, the law requires yearly income tax returns to be in the office of the director of internal revenue, or his regional directors, by midnight April 15. An Internal Revenue Service spokesman said, however, it has been the practice in recent years to accept all returns without penalty that are postmarked not later than midnight.

Otherwise those failing to make the midnight deadline would have to pay 5 per cent interest a month on the money they owe, starting Tuesday. Willful evasion of taxes, of course, is another matter and subjects a tax dodger to possible criminal prosecution.

The spokesman said postal officials have assured the Internal Revenue Service that despite the postal curbs, all mail reaching post offices today will be postmarked before the midnight deadline.

Tax officials said returns have been coming in at a good rate up to now—better than last year at this time—with about two-thirds of an estimated 60 million returns already in the hands of district tax officers.

They said the remaining 30 to 35 per cent of returns pile in during the last four or five days before the April 15 deadline, with the big surge flooding the mails on the final day—today.

Officials said that despite the last-minute rush there should be no great delay in sending refunds to those entitled to them. They said refunds should be in the mail for the entire United States by the end of April. New processing centers have made possible speedup in refunds, they explained.

Faces Charge of Driving too Fast

Michael Lukach, of 1208 Knox Ave., Monessen, faces a charge of driving too fast for conditions following a motor accident at 928 Donner Ave. last night about 9:45, police reported today.

Reports said Lukach was traveling west on Donner Ave. when he crashed into a parked station wagon belonging to Joan Deneen, of 928 Donner Ave. The Lukach machine ran through a fence and shrubbery and damaged the front steps on the property of William Horak.

Compromise Is Expected to Ease Mideast Crisis

By UNITED PRESS

Pro-Western Hussein Khalidi succeeded in forming a new government in Jordan today. It included ousted Leftist former Premier Suleiman Nabulsi.

The ouster of Nabulsi by young King Hussein last Wednesday set off a domestic crisis in Jordan that threatened to erupt into a new Mideast War.

But Khalidi's success in establishing a new government appeared to be the result of a compromise between the pro-Western policies of King Hussein and the pro-Soviet and pro-Egyptian policies of Nabulsi.

Apparently it eased the domestic crisis in Jordan, although the ultimate outcome of that struggle for power still was not clear.

Shortly before this development, there were these other events in the Mideast.

Orders Withdrawal

—Hussein ordered the withdrawal of Syrian troops from Jordan; they entered that country to bolster its defenses at the time of the Israeli invasion of Egypt.

—A Damascus radio report said Jordan warned Israel that "any act of provocation or aggression" would be met by force. Israel long has coveted the bulge of Jordan territory west of the Jordan River and north of Jerusalem seized in the 1948 war, and it was feared any Syrian military action against Hussein's regime might prompt Israel to move.

—The Jerusalem, Israel, radio reported that the Iraqi government had warned Syria it would take "strict military measures" if Syria intervened in Jordan. King Hussein and Iraq's King Feisal are cousins and allied as members of the Hashemite Dynasty with a natural fear of aggression from pro-Soviet Syria.

In forming the new Jordanian government, Khalidi was faced with the task of reconciling the diverging interests of East and West for the best deal for his own country.

Closer to King

A Palestinian, he is a former foreign minister well acquainted with the devious workings of Middle East diplomacy. He comes from the same general area as does Nabulsi and Maj. Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar, the former army chief of staff, who was booted out by Hussein in solidifying his position Sunday. But he also is regarded as somewhat closer to the king and more moderate in his views.

Nabulsi was leader of the pro-Egyptian left-wing element in the government and he and the King have struggled for power for the past four months. Nabulsi was backed by the 1,700,000 persons Jordan acquired when it carved a big sector out of Israel in the 1948 war.

$100,000 Damage As Fire Sweeps Frame Building

BUTLER, Pa. (UP)—Damage was estimated at $100,000 today from a fire that swept a two-story frame building at nearby Petrolia and destroyed a drug store, hardware store, a doctor's office and the town's post office.

Petrolia Fire Chief Louis Tomasello, who made the damage estimate, said the fire broke out in the drugstore's prescription room about 10 p.m. Sunday and quickly spread throughout the building located in the heart of town.

No one was injured in the fire, which seven fire companies battled for three hours before it was brought under control. Petrolia is located about 15 miles north of here.

Tomasello said there was some fear the fire would spread to the Koppers Chemical Co. building, located about 200 yards away. But he said that at no time did the fire get out of control. The Daugherty Refining Co. is also located at the edge of town.

The fire chief said the blaze was discovered by Helen Masters, a clerk at the drugstore. He said she was driving down Main Street toward her home when she noticed the fire.

Firemen from Chicora, Parker City, North Washington, East Brady, Sugar Creek, and Perry Twp., helped fight the blaze.

Local Firm Is Moved Today to Larger Quarters

Dependable Furnace Co., of Monessen, today moved into new and larger quarters at 57 East Donner Ave. The firm was formerly located at 336 Donner Ave.

The new building, measuring 100 by 75 feet, houses large sales and display rooms, service department and workshops.

The firm, which specializes in heating, air conditioning and appliances, is owned and operated by Rudy Benedetti and William Vagli. Frank Mager is sales manager; Don Ford, service and installation foreman, Rose Hans, bookkeeper, and Lena Valdiserri, office sales.

Dependable had been in its former location for 15 years.

A formal opening will be held May 2, 3 and 4.

Four Drowned as New Dam Breaks

JIPIJAPA, Ecuador (UP)—The new Jipijapa Dam burst Sunday, drowning at least four persons and sweeping away scores of homes in this provincial town. Damage was estimated at $180,000.

The failure of the dam, completed only a few months ago, was blamed on defective construction."

Ike's Adviser Dims Hopes for Tax Reduction

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower's chief economic adviser dimmed hopes today that congressional budget-cutting might pave the way for tax reductions this year.

The official, Gabriel Hauge said that House cuts in President Eisenhower's $71,800,000,000 budget were not nearly enough to pull down the level of government spending next year. But Hauge held out hopes for a tax cut later.

He said the administration is determined to scale down federal expenses to the point where a tax reduction would be possible during the last three years of Eisenhower's second term.

Hauge said on a television program Sunday that a surplus of "several billion dollars" first will have to be in sight before he will favor any tax cuts.

He said that "not all or even half" of the billion dollars which the House knocked out of the budget will result in lower federal spending next year.

He said some of the reductions were made in appropriations which will not be used until future years rather than actually be spent in fiscal 1958.

Other congressional news:

USIA—Sen. Allen J. Ellender called for even deeper cuts in the budget of the U.S. Information Agency than already voted by the House Appropriations Committee. Ellender said some of the agency's programs are "just a waste of funds." The House committee has lopped 38 million dollars off President Eisenhower's request for 144 million dollars for the agency.

Aid—Presidential economic adviser Gabriel Hauge said Eisenhower planned to put up a real fight to keep Congress from making big cuts in his $4,400,000,000 foreign aid program. Hauge said, "I think the President is going to make a very forthright attempt to lay the facts before the people on this very important subject."

Depressed Areas — The U.S Chamber of Commerce told the Senate Banking Committee that it is "unnecessary" to set up a special government program to aid the nation's economically depressed areas. But the United Mine Workers told the committee that the government has "consistently neglected" such chronic unemployment areas while it has been aiding underdeveloped nations and "nations that are not underdeveloped."

schan and Joseph Malloy, a member of Local 229, were sentenced to 23 months' imprisonment after pleading guilty March 9, 1956, to felonious use of explosives. Malloy is the brother of Robert Malloy, business agent of Local 229.

The four confessed dynamiters were paroled shortly before Christmas. The four convicted labor leaders each have appeals pending.

Bartell, Brady, Joseph J. McHugh, another local 229 business agent, Robert Malloy presently face trial on conspiracy charges growing out of damage to another Scranton home in January, 1954, which was under construction by non-union labor.

Durkin, McHugh and Robert Malloy also are under federal indictments charging numerous violations of the anti-labor racketeering Act for alleged extortion in construction of the Signal Corps Depot at Tobyhanna.

It was indicated the Senate group also will investigate two local 229 elections in which Robert Malloy defeated Martin J. Piepoli, a former business agent. Piepoli also has been subpenaed. He was defeated in his bid for reelection in 1951 and again in a subsequent election.

Bradshaw was a poll watcher during one of those elections.

Postal

trucks were reduced to no more than two a day from the usual three deliveries.

A Post Office Department spokesman said "every effort" would be made throughout the nation today to deliver all first class mail—sealed letters—stacked up in post offices over the week end because of the halt in week end deliveries.

He expressed hope all first class mail can be delivered today. "If necessary," he said second and third class mail will be held up until Tuesday to assure that letters will get to their destinations.

The pileup might possibly affect delivery of some magazines and newspapers normally delivered Saturday and Monday, he said. He added every effort will be made to deliver all mail but priority will be given the first class letters.

McCormack agreed Congress probably will provide the money before it takes its Easter recess slated to begin at the close of business Thursday.

State Highways Change 'Certain', Legislator Says

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Sen. George N. Wade (R-Cumberland) said today legislation to rip out the state Highways Department and replace it with an independent administrative commission "seems almost certain" of passage in the General Assembly.

The bill, co-sponsored by Wade and Sen. James S. Berger (R-Potter) would transfer all powers and duties of the department, now under Highways Secretary Joseph J. Lawler, a Democrat, to a three-member Pennsylvania Highways Commission. It moved to the floor of the Senate last Wednesday.

In his weekly letter to constituents, Wade said the main purpose of the bill is "to insure the acredited thinking of three qualified men as well as continuity of management. . .rather than a change of administration with each new governor."

"To create efficiency the Highways Department needs the help of all citizens on both sides of the political picture, regardless of affiliation," he said. "In spite of the magnitude of its operations, the department has come under the jurisdiction of one individual."

Wade, chairman of the Senate Highways Committee, also suggested that after its initial two or three years of operation, the proposed Highway Commission take over supervision of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission "in the interest of economy and singleness of purpose."

French Authoress Nearly Killed in Highway Accident

PARIS (UP)—Francoise Sagan, precocious French authoress who "loves to drive 125 miles an hour barefoot," hovered near death in hospital today as the result of a highway accident that may have broken her neck.

The 21-year-old author of "Bonjour Tristesse" was seriously injured when one of her five sports cars ran off a country road south of Paris and rolled over several times in a field.

Three passengers in the British-made Aston - Martin, Veronique Campion, Bernard Frank and Waldemar Lestienne, also were injured in the crash. They were reported in "satisfactory" condition today.

Miss Sagan was in a coma for more than nine hours. She recovered consiousness early today, and was able to mumble several words.

When doctors promptly put her back to sleep with a shot of morphine to ease what they said was "severe pain." All of her face, except her mouth and eye, was swathed in bandages.

"There has been a very slight improvement, but her life is still in danger," said Dr. Jacques Le Beau, who is attending Miss Sagan at a hospital in suburban Neuilly.

Le Beau said it will be two or three days before any one can tell whether she will live.

Leader Wants More Work from Assembly

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has called on legislative leaders to keep the 1957 General Assembly in session until it acts on the bulk of his legislative program.

The governor, warning that a "good government showdown is now at hand," invited leaders of both parties to meet with him April 24 at the Executive Mansion to "discuss prompt and responsible methods" of writing his program into law.

Republicans, who control both branches of the Legislature, are driving for final adjournment May 31.

"I'm for early adjournment—everybody is—but we must not get the cart before the horse," he said in a week end statement. "I urge that we don't reach a decision on an adjournment date until we do the work. There is still a great deal to be done. To stop now—before we reach even mid-stream—would be a historic disservice to this Commonwealth."

The governor said he was convinced that Pennsylvanians are "fed up with political sniping and petty partisanship."

He pointed out that "very few" administration - sponsored bills have been reported out of Republican-dominated committees of the House and Senate.

They include legislation for expansion of civil service protection among state workers, extension of school building programs, special training for handicapped children, state government reorganization, a step-up in the industrial development program, registration of lobbyists, liberalization of public assistance grants, and revamping of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Neither operator suffered injury. Damage approximated $400.

LOCAL STUDENTS VISIT PITTSBURGH FIRMS — Fifty-five Monessen High School students were on an all-day tour today of business firms in Pittsburgh. Among the places to be visited were Mellon National Bank and Blue Cross Service Association offices. Mrs. Eva Eisaman, third from right, is an instructor in commercial subjects at the school. Also accompanying the group was Mrs. Dorothy Hicks, guidance counselor. The party left in two buses this morning.

U. S. Paying 70 Per Cent of Bill in Clearing Suez Muddle

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States, which didn't fight in Egypt last fall, is kicking in about 70 per cent of the money to help the United Nations untangle problems left by the British-French-Israeli invasion.

This country is putting up $18,330,000 of the $26,500,000 being spent to clear the Suez Canal and to station U.N. Emergency Forces at Middle Eastern trouble points.

If all goes well the United States will get $9,500,000 back some day. A minimum of $8,830,000 is earmarked as a gift.

Just A Loan

The United States in early January offered to advance half of the 10 million dollars asked by the United Nations for Suez clearance operations. This five million dollars is to be repaid.

So far eight nations have pledged another six million dollars for Suez clearance. Therefore a total of 11 million dollars is on hand for this project. The cost is estimated at 10 million dollars or more. Canada, Australia, Norway and Western Germany each have pledged one million dollars; Sweden $800,000; Denmark $500,000; Italy $400,000; and the Netherlands $300,000. Belgium was asked to chip in but declined.

Stationing of U.N. Emergency Forces in the Middle East is going to cost about $16,500,000 this year. The United States will provide $6,580,000 of this as a gift.

Others Stand Pat

Beyond these costs the United States provided air transportation to move the special U.N. police force to the Middle East. The commercial equivalent would have cost $2,250,000. This too is a gift.

The United States also is providing $4,500,000 of services and supplies for the U.N.E.F. This is to be repaid when the Defense Department submits its bill to the United Nations.

How will the United States get its five million dollars for the Suez clearance back? When U.N. Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold asked for the money he said it would be paid back "eventually." He didn't say how. There is a move underway now to get the repayment funds from a surcharge on canal tolls. This, however, hasn't been accepted by Egypt which collects the tolls.

Britain, France and Israel, who joined in the Egyptian invasion, aren't paying anything to clear the canal. The Soviet Union has refused to pay any of the U.N. Emergency Force costs.

Hidden Movie Camera Watches Loan Robbery

CLEVELAND (UP) — Two women and a man were to be arraigned today for the $2,376 robbery of a savings and loan company which was "witnessed" by a hidden movie camera.

The camera, installed only the day before the robbery Friday, recorded a complete account of the crime.

Police arrested the third suspect Sunday only 36 hours after a masked man and woman walked into the firm and demanded money.

Wanda Di Cenzi, 19, was found in a west side rooming house. She allegedly is the woman shown in the film scooping money from cash drawers of the St. Clair Savings and Loan Co.

Earlier, Steven Thomas, 24, and Rosie O'Donnell, 18, surrendered to authorities.

"I'm tired of running," said Thomas as he gave himself up.

The quick arrests came after detectives viewed the film taken during the robbery. Bank officials had installed the movie camera for just such a purpose. The firm was robbed of $34,000 in two previous robberies.

Detectives Joseph David and William Steel recognized Miss Di Cenzi as the girl they saw near the loan office just before it was robbed.

Claim Feed Will Increase Laying

MILAN, Italy (UP) — Italian poultrymen said today they have found a magic chicken feed that will turn normal hens into mass production egg-laying machines.

They said their formula for increased production consists of feeding the chickens a balanced diet of proteins and vitamins and keeping each hen in a one-cubic-foot cage, where she has nothing else to do but lay eggs. The hens get a vacation every two months, they added.

Crowds Give the 'Pirates' Big Welcome Home

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Crowds lined streets in the Golden Triangle today as the city gave a rousing "welcome home" to the Pittsburgh Pirates, the "champs of the Grapefruit League."

With a band blaring "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" leading the way, the team members were paraded through the business district in a motorcade. The route led to Gateway Center where the players were guests of honor at a luncheon given by the KDKA radio and television stations. The Pirates open the 1957 season here against New York Tuesday.

Riding in the procession with the current Buccaneers were such stars of the past as Hall of Famer Pie Traynor, second baseman Frank Gustine and pitcher Wilbur Cooper.

Tonight, the Pirate players will be guests at a banquet sponsored by the Fraternal Order of Eagles. Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, mayors of a score of Tri-State communities and Gov. George M. Leader will be among those honoring the Pittsburgh team.

More than 1,000 persons were waiting at Greater Pittsburgh Airport Sunday night when the Pirates arrived from Charleston, W. Va., where they wound up their spring exhibition schedule in a game with the Detroit Tigers.

The bus bringing the players from the airport to the city was delayed for an hour as well-wishers kept the players surrounded at the terminal.

Muddy May Become The Only 'Wet' Spot

MUDDY, Ill. (UP) — Muddy is only muddy now, but it may become the only "wet" spot in Saline County after Tuesday's election.

Residents of the village will vote on whether to remain "dry" or to permit sale of alcoholic beverages in a referendum. Saline County now is all "dry."

Incumbent Mayor John Molinaroles' slate of village officers is unopposed in the election. The mayor owns all the houses in the village.

16 Lose Lives in Accidents

Airman Is Killed on Route 711

By UNITED PRESS

Sixteen persons lost their lives in traffic accidents on Pennsylvania's highways and streets during the week end, a United Press survey showed today.

The fatalities:

Greenville: Three Meadville women were killed Sunday when their auto crashed into a bridge abutment six miles north of Greenville. They were Mrs. Leona Vardaro, 39, the driver; Mrs. Beatrice Harrison, 34, her sister, and Bonnie Lee Kays, 22. State police said Mrs. Vardaro apparently lost control on slippery Route 18.

Connellsville: Jerome McGarrity, 20, of Leisenring, an airman, was killed Sunday when his car ran off Route 711 near Connellsville.

Meadville: Two men were killed in separate Crawford County accidents Friday night. Willard Hollabough, 41, Cochranton and James Castile, 43, Saegertown, were the victims. Hollabaugh was killed when his auto collided with another on U.S. Route 322, five miles south of Meadville. Castile was killed four miles north of Meadville when his car collided with a truck.

Brookville: J Erlov Roosenhoover, 43, Johnsonburg, Elk County, was killed Saturday when his car rolled over after striking a fence on Route 28 near Brookville.

Harrisburg: Joseph Shrawder, 26, Millersburg, was killed Saturday night when his automobile crashed through a guardrail on Route 14, north of Clark's Ferry bridge.

Canonsburg: Four-year-old Jerry Malpassi, excited by the prospect of seeing an Easter parade Friday, disregarded warnings to wait on a sidewalk near his Canonsburg home. He ran across the street into the path of an auto driven by Marin Mulligan Jr., of Canonsburg. He died shortly after he was admitted to the hospital.

Pittsburgh: James Patrick McMahon, 21, Pittsburgh, died of a fractured skull Sunday after an auto in which he was riding struck a utility pole while trying to elude police. The auto was driven by James B. Hepner, Homestead Park, who was reported in critical condition.

Pittsburgh: An 18-month-old child, Sally Malarkey of New Castle was killed in Pittsburgh Saturday when an auto operated by her father, Robert, 29, crashed into another car on Banksville road. The father suffered internal injuries.

Pittsburgh: Robert H Caffee, president of the William G. Johnston Printing Co., Pittsburgh, was killed when his car struck a utility pole on Banksville Road early Saturday morning.

Indiana: Samuel Schadle, 66, Clymer, RD 2, Indiana County, was killed Saturday night when the car in which he was riding crashed into a tree two miles south of Alverda, Near Indiana.

Mount Pocono: Warren Seese, 21, of Canadensis, Monroe County, was killed when his car left the highway and crashed into a tree near Mt. Pocono. The victim's cousin, Robert Seese, 22, also of Canadensis, said he was asleep and did not know what caused the crash.

Tamaqua: Peter Ritzko, 39, Minersville carpenter, was killed Sunday when his auto missed a curve on Route 209 near Tamaqua and struck a bridge abutment.

Latrobe: Thomas Hanna 74, Latrobe, died Sunday of injuries suffered when he was struck by an auto near his home Saturday night. The driver of the car was identified as 16-year-old Thomas Piper of Latrobe RD 4.

LIONS PRESIDENT — John L. Stickley, president of Lions International, will be principal speaker at the Lions District 14-E banquet sponsored by the Monessen Lions Club next Monday at Twin Coaches. William F. Essey, local president, will be in charge of the program. Ross Aiello and David R. Victoria are local committeemen.

Special Services Begin Tomorrow At St. Paul

The Rev. Paul Trout, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, has announced a special observance for Holy Week. There will be services at 7.30 p. m., Tuesday through Friday.

Tuesday evening the Rev. Mr. Trout will speak on "Sacrifice", Wednesday, "Whither Thou Goest"; Thursday; "The Symbol of Victorious Sin" and Good Friday, "Unless A Grain of Wheat Die".

The sacrament of Holy Communion will be administered on Holy Thursday, at 7 30 p. m. and on Easter Day at 9.30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The congregation will take part in the Community Good Friday service at the Salvation Army Citadel from noon until 3 p. m.

On Easter Sunday morning the choir will present a cantata entitled, "King Triumphant" by E. L Ashford at 7 o'clock and at the 7:30 evening Holy Communion service the Rev. Mr. Trout will speak on "Victory".

Former District Hoodlum Leader In Smuggling Ring

ROME, Italy (UP)—Joe Pici, former Pittsburgh hoodlum deported to his native Italy in 1946, was identified by police today as one of three leaders of a cigaret smuggling ring smashed here.

Pici and 138 other persons, including financiers, ship workers, truck operators and street peddlers, were arrested, police said. Police said the ring, which had operated for seven years, smuggled 44 tons of untaxed cigarettes into Italy in a three-month period, beginning last December.

Police said almost all of the cigarettes were American They can be purchased on the Rome black market for 40 cents a pack, which is cheaper than Italian cigarettes, according to police.

Pope Blesses Many Thousands

VATICAN CITY (UP) — Pope Pius XII braved a damp, chilly wind Sunday to impart a Palm Sunday blessing from his window on thousands of Roman Catholics waving olive branches in St. Peter's Square.

The white-clad Pontiff, who was 81 last month, stood in his study window for more than a minute, opening his arms in the familiar gesture of embrace toward the estimated 40,000 persons who gathered in the square at noon.

Showers earlier in the day failed to disrupt Palm Sunday processions to the Eternal City's 447 churches marking the opening of Holy Wek.

Meaning of Easter—

Easter Happy Time For All Christians

(Following is the first in a series of four articles by leading Protestant and Catholic theologians on the meaning of Easter for modern man.

The author is dean of the School of Sacred Theology at Catholic University, Washington.)

By The Very Rev.
FRANCIS J. CONNELL

WASHINGTON (UP) — Coming in the early spring, Easter is naturally connected in our thoughts with the blossoms and the brightness of that joyful season, when the earth awakens from the slumber of winter.

However, to Christians Easter means much more than the happiness of spring. On Easter Sunday we celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the tomb. The final days of Holy Week are devoted to the remembrance of His bitter sorrows and agonizing death. At the third hour of the afternoon of Good Friday He breathed forth His soul on the Cross of Calvary, in satisfaction for the sins of mankind. He was true God, a divine person who had taken to Himself a human nature in order to make adequate atonement to His heavenly Father for the transgressions of the human race.

Not The End

Yet, that was not the end. He had announced that after He had been put to death He would return again to life. He had even predicted that this would take place on the third day after His death, for He had said: "Destroy this temple (His body) and in three days I will raise it up" (John, 2:19). The third day after His death on Friday was Sunday, according to the reckoning then prevalent, which included both the initial day and the final day.

And on the Sunday after His death He fulfilled this prophecy. His body that had been so cruelly tortured and nailed to the cross was restored to its integrity and beauty; His soul returned to take up its abode again in that body; and Jesus Christ came forth from the grave, glorious and immortal, in perfect fulfilment of His prophecy.

This is the great event that Christians commemorate on Easter Sunday, and it is an event of far-reaching significance. Above all, it was the most convincing proof that His teachings were the message of God to mankind. In the course of His lifetime He had wrought many miracles. He had restored sight to the blind; He had cured lepers of their loathsome malady; He had even raised dead persons to life. Such wonders could be performed only with the direct and extraordinary aid of God; and the God of truth would not work miracles in favor of falsehood. The culminating argument for the divine approval of His doctrine was His own return to life on the third day after his agonizing death on the cross. Hence, on the first Easter Sunday Jesus Christ established for all time the truth of His teachings.

An Historical Fact

This proof that He spoke to men in the name of God is just as valid today as it was nineteen centuries ago. The resurrection of Jesus Christ is an historical fact which can be established with the same certainty that we have of the historical fact that Pontius Pilate was the Roman governor of Palestine at the time of the crucifixion. Accordingly, the doctrines preached by Jesus Christ bear the seal of divine truth. And among those doctrines is His assertion that He Himself is the true son of God, the second person of the blessed Trinity.

The resurrection of Jesus Christ is also a pledge to us that we shall be granted the privilege of a bodily resurrection at the end of time. He said: "The hour is coming in which all who are in the tombs shall hear the voice of the son of God. And they who have done good shall come forth unto resurrection of life; but they who have done evil unto resurrection of judgment" (John, 5:28). This means that those who have served God faithfully in the brief span of mortal life will rise from the grave at some future date and be admitted, in body and soul, to everlasting happiness with God.

Such is the consoling message of Easter Sunday. At times it is not easy to obey God's law, at times we must endure great sufferings with courage if we would be faithful to our duty. But, as the glory of the resurrection was granted to Jesus Christ in compensation for His patience and bravery in bearing the sufferings of Good Friday, so to those who accept the crosses of life in full conformity to God's will there will be granted peace and happiness eternal.

Man Killed in Crash of Light Plane in County

LIGONIER, Pa (UP) — The body of August Gilbert Pitz, 23, of Oshkosh, Wis., was found Sunday in the wreckage of his light plane in a heavily wooded area in Fairfield Twp., Westmoreland County.

Coroner Stephen D Yoney said Pitz died from multiple lacerations, a fractured neck and possible internal injuries. Yoney said identification was established from the plane's number, N2964N.

George Glessner, of Johnstown, found the wrecked plane while fox hunting about six miles south of here Sunday.

Civil Aeronautics Authorities in Pittsburgh alerted Air Force search units after the plane, a Cessna 140, was reported missing by Warren Basler, also of Oshkosh.

Authorities said Basler did not report the missing plane until 24 hours after he lost contact with Pitz Basler said he and Pitz took off from Lock Haven in separate planes Friday morning en route to their homes.

Basler said after bad weather set in they were forced to detour south. He said the last time he saw the Cessna was when Pitz headed into a snow squall over a mountainous area near Portage, Cambria County.

Basler landed safely at Ligonier Airport, about 40 miles east of Pittsburgh.

Blocked Plate, Needs Plate

TOKYO (UP) — Kazuo Satake, catcher for the Kokutetsu baseball Swallows, got an assist from television Sunday. Satake collided with a runner at home plate and the TV announcer reported that he suffered two broken teeth A dentist, watching the game at home, promptly called the stadium and offered to open up his office to treat the ball player.

Dutch Treat

AMSTERDAM, Holland (UP) — Dutch breweries have found a new source of income. They're selling old beer bottles to the army for use as dummy hand grenades in the training of troops.

Holy Name Society Receives Communion

The Holy Name Society of St Cajetan R. C. Church received Holy Communion at the 9:15 mass yesterday morning and after the service the men were served breakfast in the church hall.

There was a large attendance and after serving a business session was held. Committee reports were made and installation of officers was set for June 16.

Industrialist Arrives In Sweden with 'Party'

MALMOE, Sweden (UP)—A Chicago industrialist with 70 relatives and employes in tow arrives here today by chartered plane to an enthusiastic welcome from his native country.

The industrialist is Ragnar Benson, 57, who rose from an immigrant $5-a-week bricklayer's apprentice to the head of an 80-million-dollar-a-year industrial engineering firm.

Benson picked up the $50,000 tab for the three week vacation for which he chartered a Scandinavian airlines DC6B flagship. He told 300 well-wishers at Chicago Airport it was his "way of saying thanks."

"Thanks to all the people who have helped me and thanks to the most wonderful country in the world—the United States."

Dinner For 200

Swedish authorities ordered a band to Bulltofta Airport to play for the landing, filmed by a movie company and by television men from Denmark and southern Sweden. Cameramen also were filming the bus trip to Benson's home in Aelmhult, 100 miles from Malmoe.

All relatives in the Benson clan were expected to take part in a big dinner for 200 persons given by Benson's sister-in-law, Mrs Bornhild Bengtsson.

Among the 70 persons accompanying Benson were 32 relatives, 33 employes, a minister and his wife, a physician and a public relations man and his wife.

"All his life that's the way Ragnar has done things," his wife, Elsa, said before they took off. "Whatever he had he always was willing to share."

Rewards His Friends

But Benson wanted no special credit for his generosity.

"I don't want to be the wealthiest man in the cemetery," he laughed. "I just want to pay back all the people who have been nice to me."

Benson was one of 10 farm children when he came to the United States in 1911.

"Everybody told me, before I came, about how rough greenhorns were treated," he said. "But I'll never forget the wonderful reception I got. I'll never be able to repay it."

Shoots Ex-Wife's Husband

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A murder charge was to be filed today against Raymond Mussill, 39, a Bridgeville steelworker, who confessed he shot and killed his former wife's husband after an argument in a Carnegie club.

Allegheny County Detective Henry Peiper said Mussill admitted he shot Louis Trombetta, 32, a mail carrier, in a parking lot outside the Carnegie Veterans of Foreign Wars Club early Sunday.

Peiper said Mussill accused Trombetta of breaking up his home. Mrs. Florence Trombetta, 34, married the victim about 15 months ago, shortly after she divorced Mussill, Peiper said.

Carnegie Police Chief John J. Baird said the men began an argument in the club over Mrs. Trombetta.

"There had been bad feelings between Trombetta and Mussill for a long time," Baird said.

Mussill said Trombetta had been "mistreating Florence and had beaten her."

According to witness, Trombetta and Mussill quarreled in the club and were separated by bystanders.

"Let's go outside and settle this thing once and for all," Trombetta was quoted as saying.

17 Aged Persons Die In Nursing Home Fire

POINTE AUX TREMBLES, Que. (UP)—Seventeen aged men and women were believed today to have died Saturday night in a flash electrical fire that destroyed a 200-year-old mansion converted for use as a nursing home.

Police said flames began in the home's electric wiring at the point where power lines entered the roof, and crackled along the interior wiring like fuses to all parts of the 18-room Madame John Henri Rest Home in this Montreal suburb.

Death came so quickly that none of the trapped inmates was heard to cry out. The roof caved in minutes after firemen arrived and the building blazed for five hours before the flames were brought under control.

Thirteen bodies had been removed from the ashes early today. One resident died of burns in a hospital Three persons are reported missing. Firemen resumed the search for them at dawn.

Thirteen of the guests, ranging in age from 55 to over 80, managed to escape the flames. Police said all of them were downstairs, watching television, when the fire broke out.

Most of the dead, some of them partially paralyzed, were trapped in their beds One body was found in a bathtub.

Positive identification was made on only two of the charred bodies recovered. One woman was identified by the location of her body in her room. A 77-year-old man was identified from the initials engraved on the back of his glass eye.

Mayor Jean Langelier of Pointe Aux Trembles was asked if the building had been a "firetrap."

"The evidence speaks for itself," Langelier said.

The Mail Cutback

THE INTERRUPTION of normal mail service which occurred on Saturday could hardly be regarded as a disaster. And we suspect the nation will be able to survive if the curtailment ordered by the Postmaster General continues indefinitely.

But some effort should be made, it seems to us, to show the public that this cutback is the result of something more substantial than a political quarrel in Washington between an executive department and a congressional subcommittee.

As matters stand now, there is some reason for the public to feel that it has been made the victim of some political peevishness between Mr. Summerfield, the Postmaster General, and Representative Cannon, the chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. Actually, there probably is more to it than this, including even a disagreement on the basic philosophy under which the postal service operates. But as the average citizen has been given to understand it, the immediate cause of the interruption has been a somewhat petty political argument.

This is both unnecessary and undignified. The postal service is far too important a public function to be used as the rope in a tug-of-war.

If there is some serious difference of opinion in Washington as to how much mail service the country needs and how it should be paid for, that should be considered fully in the usual way, both by Congress and by the executive branch. And our government processes are certainly adequate to produce, at some point, a rational and effective policy.

But while this policy is being worked out, it is most improper to inflict on the public sudden and radical changes in the mail service.

Public Interested

PROBABLY the No. 1 topic of conversation in this part of the Monongahela Valley last week was the announced changes in the management of the Pittsburgh Steel Co. The significance of the changes both for the present and the future furnished material for speculation.

Such turnovers, of course, are not unusual in Pittsburgh Steel nor in many other large industrial concerns. But when a company occupies as important a place in a community as Pittsburgh Steel occupies in the Valley, changes in the top management are bound to inspire speculation as to their possible significance.

And the company, we should think, ought to welcome this evidence of concern outside its own family. It implies genuine public interest in the well-being of the company and the people who work for it, and this is basically healthy.

One phase of the changes struck us particularly, and that is that they give Pittsburgh Steel a remarkably youthful executive echelon. The president of the company, Allison R. Maxwell, Jr., is still under 45, and with one or two exceptions, his close associates in the top management are in the 40-45 bracket.

Youth, of course, is not a virtue in itself. But all of the men who are coming into prominence in Pittsburgh Steel have had backgrounds of solid training and experience. And these, coupled with youth, make an impressive and promising combination.

It's Really Simple

EVEN THOUGH $200,000 is a lot of money, we doubt if many public relations firms envy the one in New York City which has been given the job — at that fee — of improving the reputation of the Teamsters Union.

We have to wonder, however, whether the assignment is really complicated at all or even whether it requires expert counsel. If Dave Beck and his associates in the Teamsters' leadership were to go before the congressional investigators, divest themselves of the Fifth Amendment, and tell a straight, full story about their use of union funds — wouldn't that be the real solution of the Teamsters' public relations problem?

We believe it would. And it wouldn't cost anything like $200,000, either.

There is really no magic about good public relations, for either an industry or a union, although good public relations and clever press agentry are quite different things. The basic element of good public relations is old-fashioned truth and honesty. And if an individual or an organization doesn't intend to be truthful and honest, he or it can't expect good public relations, no matter how fat a fee is paid to some experts.

Merry-Go-Round—

Explains Hall's Bid to Beck For Support

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Newspaper denials are a dime a dozen in Washington these days. They are the easiest statement for a politician to make. He knows the denial will get headlines and half the public will believe it. The other half won't. Final result: nobody quite knows the truth.

Mr. Pearson

Last week Len Hall, ex-chairman of the Republican National Committee, issued a ringing, righteous denial that he had ever solicited the help of Dave Beck in the last campaign. A statement to the contrary had come from Arthur Condon, personal attorney for Beck.

Mr. Condon is a highly reputable attorney. He does not lie. Therefore, who was telling the truth?

The answer took some probing, but is highly interesting. Technically Len Hall was telling the truth. In a broader sense, Condon was. Hall did not seek Dave Beck's support for Eisenhower; he already had it. He was seeking Dave Beck's support in getting the trucking industry to support Eisenhower.

Beck has always been a Republican, and, as Teamsters' executive vice president, had begun to buck his late boss, Dan Tobin, and the latter's ardent FDR friendship.

Len Hall, therefore, appealed to Condon to get Beck's help in putting the trucking industry behind Ike.

Sherman Adams Phoned

Condon is the attorney not only for Beck, but for the independent advisory committee to the trucking industry. Hall knew this. He also knew that the truckers in Washington state were supporting Sen. Warren Magnuson, Democrat, and in Oregon, Sen. Wayne Morse, Democrat. He knew that campaign contributions hadn't come in from the truckers as expected. So Hall appealed to Condon.

There followed a meeting right inside the White House in the office of assistant president Sherman Adams. Present were Hall himself, Beck, Adams, Condon; Bert Seymour, who is head of Associated Transport and also of the advisory trucking committee; Walter Carey, former head of the American Trucking Association; and Roy Fruehauf, head of Fruehauf Trailers.

At the meeting it was proposed that certain things be done to placate the trucking industry, then irked at Ike over Secretary Weeks' transportation report favoring the railroads, at the taxes laced on truckers in the highway bill, and at the tight money policy, which, though not aimed at truckers, hurt them.

It was finally agreed that the Weeks transportation policy and the highway bill were water over the dam, but that something could be done about hard money. Sherman Adams, therefore, got on the phone to Wendell Barnes, head of the Small Business Administration, and told him to ease credit for truckers.

Barnes then set up a task force, which resulted in relaxing small business loan requirements for truckers.

It was also proposed that Beck and Fruehauf go to Puerto Rico and make some pro-labor speeches which, it was figured, would influence the Puerto Rican vote in New York City. This, however, never came off.

Beck and most of the truckers, however, threw their weight behind Ike, and Hall was grateful.

Build-up For Beck

He was so grateful that in December, after Ike had won, he got in touch with Condon, told him he was leaving as chairman of the GOP sometime in February, but had talked over with Sherman Adams the idea of building up Dave Beck. He said that Richard Guylay, his assistant on the Republican National Committee, was also leaving to go into public relations and might take on the project of making Beck the great Republican labor leader.

It was definitely agreed, therefore, that Guylay would come to work with and for Beck as soon as he resigned, which was to be in February. The talk was in early December.

Late in December when the first rumblings leaked out of the McClellan committee that Beck might be in trouble, there was further discussion with Hall, when it was agreed that the White House would find a foreign assignment for Beck which would make him a knight in shining armor, above politics.

This was why Beck went abroad so confidently and stayed there.

His appointment as an International Labor Organization delegate was already in the works, but he was promised something above and beyond this. As late as three or four days before Beck abruptly returned to the USA, Secretary of Labor Mitchell told Condon that Eisenhower didn't want Beck relieved, and that the ILO appointment would stand. He did caution that the State Department might have the final word.

In the end, however, Mitchell took the initiative in dropping Beck.

The Boardwalk

From Washington—

On the President's Fitness

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

The one question most frequently asked a traveling Washington correspondent these days is — how is the President feeling? There is more genuine interest in the President's health outside Washington and more false rumor about the President's health inside Washington.

Mr. Drummond

Mr. Eisenhower has two protections against false rumor getting much beyond the person who seeks vicarious "prestige" by suggesting that he knows a man who knows — "don't spread this!" he adds — that the President doesn't feel as well as he looks.

One of Mr. Eisenhower's protections is that he is absolutely open about his health, never shows any evidence of trying to cover anything up, including last week's sun-lamp burn on the tip of his nose, and is free of any self-consciousness in discussing his health. The other is that reporters and/or photographers see him at close range two or three times a week. And every press conference is televised.

Sharp as Ever

From everything I can see and learn, I think it accurate to report:

That the President is today as sharp, as responsive, as deft in his handling of his press conference as at any time during the nearly four and a half years he has been in the White House.

That these press conferences are exacting ordeals, involving 15 to 21 tough questions, some with concealed traps, and that to answer them effectively week after week requires a reserve of poise, strength and alertness.

That in his press conferences and public appearances (three in the past week) correspondents who have seen Mr. Eisenhower close-up on all these occasions detect no sign of special strain but find him quick in step, animate in off-the-cuff speech.

That he has not shaken his lingering cough and that Dr. Snyder wishes it would yield.

That the President is deliberately focusing his energies upon his major responsibilities, that in his own words he does not have the same reserve he had before his operations, and that he aims to pace himself as much as circumstances permit.

No 'Protection'

At his press conference this past week one of the reports which circulate in Washington was brought into the open. Mr. Eisenhower was asked specifically if he wasn't being "protected" by his staff from hearing about sharp personal criticism lest it cause him to "explode" and thus harm his health. Most everyone knows, I guess, that the President "blows off steam" fairly readily but his great asset is that he does not harbor grudges. His answer was:

"If I have been protected, I certainly am not aware of it. There is always someone on my staff quite ready to bring it (criticism) around and show it to me. I know of no criticism that has hurt my health. I think I am old enough and philosophical enough to try to separate personal attacks from those that are honest differences of opinion; the latter I respect and the first I ignore."

One thing seems clear. Criticisms which do not get to the President during the course of normal White House operation get to the President at his press conferences. These include personal matters like speeding and helicopters to issues of large policy such as ambassadorial appointments, attacks on the budget and onslaughts by un-Eisenhower right-wing Republicans.

Aware of Attacks

Mr. Eisenhower showed himself fully aware of the attacks by Sen. Barry Goldwater, Ariz., chairman of the 1956 Republican Senate Campaign Committee, who has described the President's budget as "a betrayal of public trust."

My own judgment is that as long as the presidential press conferences continue regularly, the Washington press corps will have full opportunity to measure the President's fitness, his state of mind and state of health.

These conferences disclose the measure of Mr. Eisenhower's familiarity with all phases of governmental affairs, national and international. Last week he discussed 15 substantial matters from T. V. A. and the budget to Britain's new military policy and Iron Curtain trade.

Some urged him not to bring up with Congress the issue of Presidential disability lest it raise false rumors about his health. He pointed out that no constitutional amendment could come soon enough to affect him personally and that to neglect the issue would be yielding to a false self-consciousness over his health. That seems to me a healthy state of mind.

Quotes from the News

By UNITED PRESS

BROWNWOOD, Tex.— Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, calling for a re-examination of U. S. foreign policy:

"No stop-gap program can continue forever, especially when it involves gifts."

OTTAWA, Ont.— External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson, disclosing that Canadian Ambassador to Egypt E. Herbert Norman, who committed suicide last week, had associated with Communists years ago as a student:

"I examined (the record) in great detail more than once and as a result the conclusion was reached that Mr. Norman was a loyal Canadian in whom we could trust."

WASHINGTON — Clarence Cannon (D-Maine), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, on the curtailment of postal services ordered by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield:

"I don't see why he suddenly has become so pious that he can't keep essential service going."

NEW YORK—Dr. Cilan Powell, Negro publisher of the Amsterdam News, on being asked to ignore an inadvertent invitation to a dinner for "distinguished Virginians":

"The statement that the official reception is for whites only and the ignoring of all colored citizens who have contributed so much in taxes, labor and other efforts to build up the state of Virginia is fodder for the Communist propaganda machine and makes a mockery of democracy."

DES MOINES, Iowa — United Press White House Reporter Merriman Smith, on President Eisenhower's influence with Congress:

"Mr. Eisenhower suffers from a decline in his influence with Congress. He still won't admit he has."

The Cynic's Corner—

"Can you think of a better way to keep track of our foreign aid program . . . ?"

Behind The News—

Russia Is Undergoing An Economic Upheaval

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Soviet Russia is undergoing an economic upheaval.

It appears to be one of the biggest in the 40 years since the revolution of 1917.

The extent of the upheaval has been disclosed in a series of announcements in the last few weeks.

Mr. McCann

What it all adds up to is that the Soviet government, while it continues its program of subversion all over the world and now is threatening Allied countries with destruction by nuclear weapons, is in trouble at home.

It was announced in January that Russian production for 1956, under the current five-year plan of industrial development, had fallen behind its goals in some important fields, including steel.

Cut Back Goals

As a result, it was necessary to cut back the goals for 1957.

On March 30, Communist Party Leader Nikita S. Khrushchev announced a revolutionary plan for decentralization of control of industries.

Last week Khrushchev announced the government would postpone for up to 40 years the redemption of bonds to which all Russian workers are compelled to subscribe.

It is significant that most of these developments have been announced by Khrushchev, the Communist leader, and not by the Soviet government, though they all concern the government rather than the Communist Party.

This has caused a revival of the speculation current several months ago that Khrushchev may assume the prime ministry in place of Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin.

Voroshilov To Retire

If he did, Bulganin probably would be given the figure-head post of president now held by Kliment E. Voroshilov, who at 76 is ready to retire.

Khrushchev seems to be taking all the major responsibility for changes which will affect tens of millions of Russians.

The cutback in the rate of industrial expansion was an admission that goals had been set too high.

The recent announcement that foreigners in Russia could get 10 rubles for $1, instead of the official four to the $1, was a tacit admission that the official rate is unrealistic.

The plan for decentralization of industrial control was an admission that the Soviet bureaucratic system is inefficient and must be altered radically.

To Abolish Ministries

Under this plan, many of the so-called industrial ministries in the cabinet are to be abolished.

Central control will still be exercised from Moscow. But executive control is to be centered in the areas where goods are actually produced. This means countless thousands of government employes will be moved from Moscow to other cities.

The decision to suspend redemption of government bonds amounted practically to a capital levy. The Russian people hold $65 billion of them. Few of them will ever get their money back.

The Lighter Side—

Portugal's Capital Is Clean, Pleasant City

By DOC QUIGG

(Editor's Note: Doc Quigg is on a swing through Europe, over which some 700,000 tourists are expected to ramble this summer. His tour of places, some off-beat, some on-beat, takes him on short stops through Portugal, Spain, the French Riviera, Rome, Paris and England.)

LISBON (UP)—The greenery in this fair land of Portugal is enough to make a Kelly blush for shame. The grasslands and shrubbery have a glow that seems almost dye-injected, and in all the land there is scarcely a sign of a TV aerial twigged on a rooftop.

Blessed are they that live in Portugal. The radio burdens the airwaves, but it has very few singing commercials.

Urged to delve into memory about any signing commercial at all, one local citizen deposed as follows:

"There is one that I recall, but it is not singing. It is a record, advertising the 'Texas Laundry Shop'. They start it out 'Bang, bang . . . Cowboy' with yippee yells, and then they say: 'Texas is not only this — Texas is a new laundry shop.'"

Lisbon is a lovely city of one million inhabitants, of red-orange roofs, white and pink buildings, and snuggled against the sea's long rolling white breakers. The streets are so clean they have a scrubbed look.

You can take a bus out to the seaside resort of Monte Estoril, which I did, but be forewarned that a chartered tourist bus is likely to have radio music coming at you out of the ceiling in a sudden burst when the driver turns it on.

Also beware of the hotel room numbers. Some hotels number like those in America. Some, like mine, don't. My room number is 23. Instead of being on the second floor, it is on the fourth, along with all the numbers in the 20s. You have to go to the top floor—in this case it's the fifth floor—to get to room No. 1. Then you work down, getting to the 50s on the first floor.

I came here on an inaugural of Pan American World Airways' new non-stop service from New York to Lisbon with its new long-range DC7C planes. We set a record for the flight, 9 hours and 50 minutes, clipping 7 minutes off the old record. By comparison, Pan American's first Atlantic flight, in 1939, with Lisbon as the terminal, took 26½ hours in a double-deck flying boat, with refueling at the Azores.

Novel of Life in Budapest

By UNITED PRESS

Christine Arnothy has followed up her successful account of life in Hungary during World War II ("I Am Fifteen — And I don't Want To Die") with a novel, "God Is Late" (Dutton). This novel, her first, tells of family life in Budapest under Communist rule. Especially it is the story of young and attractive Gaby, her musician husband and her despised mother-in-law, living in a cramped apartment after the Nazi defeat.

Recent events in Hungary seem like a logical sequence to what takes place in Miss Arnothy's inspired tale of human beings living under ever-present fear, deprivations, the disappearance of friends and relatives, overbearing commissars, the arrival of police vans at night to sweep away "undesirables" to some unknown fate.

Gaby, lover of the beauty and pleasures of by-gone days, found it impossible to adjust to the harsh present. She sought some measure of escape by becoming a commisar's mistress, a liaison her husband found it safest to ignore. To her grief Gaby found her commissar only an inhuman puppet spouting party slogans, unable and unwilling to lessen her misery.

Miss Arnothy makes her points quietly but powerfully in this somber story.

County Clubwomen Hold Annual Spring Meeting

The Junior Clubs of Westmoreland County were hostesses for the 47th annual Spring Meeting of the County Federation of Women's Clubs at Mountain View Hotel, Greensburg, April 11.

Mrs. C. W. Phares, third vice president and junior director of the Westmoreland County Federation, was co-ordinator for the efforts of the various junior groups. "Easter Bonnets" were used as the theme of the decoration and the Youngwood and New Stanton Juniors made the bonnet favors. Table decorations were made by the Irwin Juniors and were pink hats holding tall white tapers.

The Lycippus Juniors had charge of the reservations, the Greensburg Juniors served as pages and decorated the speakers' table.

County President

County President Mrs. William G. Hoehl presided and called for routine reports. There were 194 clubwomen present including many from the Monessen-Belle Vernon area.

Among the county committee chairmen, who gave reports were Mrs. W. Barton Waite, of Monessen, fine arts and Mrs. Richard M. Bow, religion.

Four county clubs were reported subscribed 100 percent for the Club Women magazine. Clubs were urged to take advantage of the Civil Defense programs offered.

After group singing of songs in keeping with the "Easter Bonnet" theme the morning guest speaker, Mrs. Lynn A. Hunter, state junior director, was presented. She also serves as 3rd vice president at large of the State Federation and chose to discuss, "Let's Talk Turkey".

After the luncheon intermission the visiting county presidents were welcomed and the guest speaker was Mrs. H. Everett Sanford, vice president of Southwest District, spoke for the State Federation.

A Derry Township vocal trio sang special selections.

Another of the guest speakers was Dr. Dorothy Nash, neuro-surgeon at Children's Hospital, Pittsburgh, who discussed "Mental Health is Your Business".

Mrs. Phares, chairman of the Premier Theatre Party to be held at the White Barn, Irwin, May 31, announced that all proceeds will be given to the mentally retarded children's fund. The play will be an advance showing before the season opens. Mrs. Phares will have the six district vice presidents, one of whom is Mrs. R. E. Weddell, of Monessen, as her committee in charge.

District vice presidents gave reports and Mrs. Weddell reported for the Monessen area clubs.

Tentative plans were discussed for the annual picnic at Bushy Run Park on June 20th and a country store will be a feature. Each federated clubwoman is asked to donate some article for the sale.

Plans were also announced for the State Federation meeting on April 24th, 25th and 26th at the Sheraton Hotel, Philadelphia.

Catholic Women's College Club Plans Guest Night

Invitations have been sent to the various social and civic groups in the Monongahela Valley asking them to attend the annual Guest Night to be held by the Monongahela Valley Catholic Women's College Club. It will be held at St. Thomas Aquinas Church Hall in California on Monday evening, May 6. All reservations must be in before May 1.

The Rev. Bertin Roll, O.F.M., Cap., who is national director of the Arch Confraternity of Christian Mothers, will be guest speaker.

The Catholic Women's College Club was organized in 1940 and its membership includes Catholic women, who are college graduates and are residents of Monessen, Charleroi, Donora, Monongahela, Brownsville, Fayette City and California.

Local Members

The members from Monessen are Virginia Dudas, Dorothy Jozwiak, Rose Kress, Lillian Kurey, Ena Labeka, Nada J. Luti, Jean Peckyno, Olga Plavko and Alberta Stima.

The organization meets the first Monday of each month in the various towns where there is membership and lists the promotion of Catholic action as its main purpose.

This year's officers include Rose Hughes, of Brownsville, president; Alberta Stima, of Monessen, vice president; Lena Stein, of California, secretary and Suzanne Gennaula, of California, treasurer. The Rev. James A. Shay, of Brownsville, is chaplain.

Mills to Play for Donora USW Again

Melvin Mills, former all-around athlete at Monessen High, intends to play for Donora USW in the Mon Valley League again this season . . . By the way another MHS grad — Elmo Natali, who now coaches the baseball team at Monongahela will also play for the Donorans, according to our reports . . . At least one sports editor, Merrill Granger, of the McKeesport Daily News, has gone on record as picking the Pirates to win the National League pennant this season He claims he's serious! . . . The City Basketball League season in Monongahela didn't wind up until the past weekend.

Jimmy Sepesky, hard-hitting Monessen High outfielder, served as head basketball manager the past season. The quiet Jim takes a vicious left-handed swing . . . Herman Keith, former Rostraver High footballer who is student teaching at Monessen, is helping John Hayduk organize his first Greyhound baseball squad. Without pay, of course . . . Only six active big league players have 2,000 hits to their credit under the big top. Heading the list is Donora's Stan Musial with 2,781. Others are Mickey Vernon, 2,305; Ted Williams, 2,189; Enos Slaughter, 2,168; Pee Wee Reese, 2,063; and Red Schoendienst, 2,000.

Middlecoff Column Returns Today

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, National Open Golf champion, returns to our sports pages today with his popular column, "Doctoring Your Golf." The column, which proved so helpful to district golfers last year, will appear daily throughout the current "season." . . . Busiest athlete at Monessen High right now is Jim Baker. He's just finished up volleyball and is currently performing for both the Greyhound tennis and baseball teams. Baker also finds time to participate with the squash outfit representing Pitsburgh.

Mon Valley umpires are insisting that schoolboy baseballers wear their protective helmets while at bat. That's a PIAA regulation . . . And it might not be a bad idea if the Mon Valley League adopts a similar ruling this season . . . Fred Sigler, who resigned recently as sports editor at Donora, is now with the Washington Observer sports staff . . . West Virginia University had undefeated freshmen teams in both football and basketball this school year. All of which indicates a prosperous sports future for the Mountaineers.

Grid Loop Pans Pubicity Drive

The Foothills Football Conference, made up of schools in the Greensburg area, has decided to go all out in an effort to win newspaper support. Member schools will supply newsmen with complete information on their squad, with individual pictures as well as statistics. The home team at each conference game will appoint a statistican, who will prepare "official" figures for the press . . . The Foothills Conference operated for the first time last season. Participating schools felt they needed better publicity. So they've decided to do something about it.

TURNERS FIRST AGAIN IN VOLLEYBALL

Win YMCA Open Title In Weekend Tourney At Cleveland, Ohio

Coach Bud Giannini's Monessen Turners won another big volleyball crown over the weekend.

The Monessen spikers placed first in the tough Cleveland YMCA show on Saturday. It was the fifth national tourney crown earned by Giannini's boys this season.

Fourteen other top-ranked volleyball teams took part in the day-low event.

Monessen handled Ann Arbor, Mich., in the title round, scoring straight wins of 15-11 and 15-12.

En route to the championship, the locals also polished off Detroit, Mich., 15-11 and 15-10; Canton, O., 15-6 and 15-8; Tarentum, 11-15, 15-13 and 15-2.

Krusl Stars

Bruno Krusl, of Monessen, was named to the all-tournament team

This is the second straight year the Turners have won top honors at Cleveland.

The impressive victory boosts Monessen as probably the finest volleyball team in the last In major tourneys, the Monessen boys have finished first five times, second twice and fifth once.

Take Part in Win

Taking part in the weekend victory were Giannini, Krusl, Bob Parsons, George Vlasic, Len Kachmarek, Nick Sowko, Lou Kunka, Bill DiMascio and Norm Salvino.

Monessen's next big tourney assignment will be the national Turners meet at St. Louis. This is the title the locals shoot hardest for every season.

Majors to Begin Play This Week

By MILTON RICHMAN

The flags fluttering in the wind . . . the shrill shouts of the vendors hawking their hotdogs, peanut sand scorecards . . . the familiar huddle at home plate . . . and finally the first official pitch all add up to the long-awaited opening day of another baseball season

President Eisenhower sets the major league campaign in motion at Washington today when he throws out the first ball prior to a game between the Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators

Then, Tuesday, all the other clubs swing into action Detroit will be at Kansas City, Chicago at Cleveland, Boston at Baltimore and Washington at New York in the American League, while in the National League Milwaukee opens at Chicago, St Louis at Cincinnati, New York at Pittsburgh and Brooklyn at Philadelphia in a night game.

With the weatherman predicting good weather, a crowd of 27,000 was expected to be on hand for today's inaugural between the Orioles and Senators.

Yanks Add Strength

The world champion Yankees, heavily favored to win again this year because of such reinforcements as Art Ditmar, Bobby Shantz and Tony Kubek as well as such old pros as Mickey Mantle, Yogi Berra, Gil McDougald, Whitey Ford and Don Larsen, begin defense of their title against the Senators Tuesday at Yankee Stadium.

A crowd of 20,000 is anticipated, to be on hand when the left-handed Ford, who had a 19-6 record last season, tosses up the first offering to Washington's leadoff man Chuck Stobbs, ace of the Senators' staff in 1956 with a 15-15 record, will oppose the curveballing Ford.

Southpaw Herb Score, Cleveland's million - dollar strikeout king, will oppose another fine left hander in Billy Pierce when the Indians and White Sox hold their inaugural in Cleveland Tuesday.

Either big Frank Sullivan (14-7) or Tom Brewer (19-9) will be on the mound for the Red Sox in their opener at Baltimore. Connie Johnson (9-11) will be the Orioles' hurler in a game expected to attract 30,000

Frank Lary, a 21-game winner last season, opens for Detroit against ex-Yankee Tom Morgan, who will hurl for the Athletics at Kansas City. A sellout crowd of 30,611 is expected to see this one

Braves NL Pick

In the National League, where the Milwaukee Braves are favored to win this year, they will send their veteran left hander Warren Spahn (20-11) out to oppose Bob Rush (13-10) of the Cubs Tuesday at Chicago Approximately 30,000 fans are expected to welcome new manager Bob Scheffing back home to Wrigley Field, where he caught for the Cubs during his playing days.

Johnny Antonelli (20-13), the standout of a mediocre Giant pitching staff, will get the call in the opener against the Pirates at Pittsburgh Bob Friend, whose record was 17-17 last year, will hurl for the Pirates, who could easily turn out to be the most improved club in the majors this year. Pittsburgh officials anticipate a crowd of 35,000

Cincinnati, the powerhouse of the National League, plays host to St. Louis and a sellout crowd of 31,000 probably will be on tap to see Johnny Klippstein (12-11) try to get the home forces off on the right foot against Vinegar Bend Mizell (14-14) of the Cardinals

The Phillies, opening their home season at night, are pitting their ace, Robin Roberts (19-18) up against Don Newcombe, who won 27 games for Brooklyn last year and was named winner of the Most Valuable Player Award and the Cy Young Award

Bellmar Plays Host To Charleroi Today

Bellmar's dangerous Hurricanes will play host to defending champion Charleroi in the Section 17 baseball feature today.

The Canes have divided two assignments so far this season. They lost to California, but easily walloped Monessen.

Charleroi handled Donora in its only league test of the year.

Nobody expects Bap Manzini's Bellmar boys to win the title this season But the Canes are certainly good enough to upset the favorites on any given day.

Fine Infield

Bellmar has perhaps the finest infield in the valley. Against Monessen, the Canes were brilliant defensively.

Fred Mollard will probably start on the hill for the Bellmar boys He lost his opener to California but Mollard doesn't figure to lose too many more tussles.

For Charleroi, the starter will be the incomparable Carl Witmyer He, alone, would make the Cougars odds-on favorites in the current race

Besides Witmyer, the Charleroians also have veterans at almost every other position. So any loss this season will have to be regarded as an upset

Another Game

One other league game today will send disappointing Monongahela to California.

The Cats opened with a rousing win at Donora last week, then took it on the chin from lowly-rated Monessen the next day.

Tomorrow Donora will appear at Monessen.

Originally that game was scheduled for this afternoon, but was relsated for tomorrow at the request of Donora officials.

Three games are also on tap this Thursday. Charleroi will show at Monessen Bellmar will go to Monongahela and California will go to Donora.

Orioles, Senators In Opener

WASHINGTON (UP)—Washington has its once-a-year moment of baseball glory today.

For the pennant-starved nation's capital, that moment comes this afternoon when the President of the United States throws out the ceremonial first ball inaugurating the 1957 major league season.

President Eisenhower, a right-hander, will be performing the honorary chore for the fifth straight year from the presidential box behind first base.

"Reliefers" To Start

This will be the signal for a pair of 100-1 shots—the Washington Senators and Baltimore Orioles—to undertake what for them appears a futile quest for the American League pennant. They delegated the coveted starting assignment to two erstwhile relief pitchers, Bob Chakales (4-4) for Washington, and Skinny Brown (9-7) for Baltimore.

The other major leage teams open their season Tuesday.

"A nice day for baseball" was the weatherman's forecast for today's special opener at Griffith Stadium—sunny and temperatures near 60.

More than 27,000 persons, including most of the government's top brass, were set to watch Eisenhower carry forward a custom established in 1912 by another Republican president, William Howard Taft, who threw out the first "first ball."

Will Enshrine Ball

But an Eisenhower will be rooting against an Eisenhower at today's game. The President's brother, Edgar Eisenhower of Tacoma, Wash., will be cheering for a Baltimore victory from a box seat near the visitor's dugout Edgar "adopted" the Orioles while watching them during spring training at Scottsdale, Ariz., where he vacationed.

The ball sued by Eisenhower today will be enshrined in baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y. as the 10-millionth manufactured for the major leagues

Baltimore and Washington will field practically the same teams which finished sixth and seventh respectively last year. The only newcomer in either starting lineup is 29-year-old "rookie" Carl Powis, Baltimore right fielder.

The probable starting lineups

Washington	Baltimore
Herzog, cf	Gardner, 2b
Plews, 2b	Kell, 1b
Runnels, 1b	Williams, cf
Yost, 3b	Nieman, lf
Sievers, lf	Powis, rf

Warn Against Park Vandalism

Youngsters were warned today against vandalism in Monessen parks.

James Shawley, superintendent of parks, reported that vandals have caused considerable damage to the softball field in City Park.

Benches at the field have been destroyed and some of the roofing ripped off of the dugouts.

At Ninth Street Park, a water fountain was smashed last week.

According to officials from the parks department, anyone caught in the act of vandalism will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

40 Shooters at Archery Club

Forty shooters took part in the hunters round at the Charleroi Archery Club yesterday.

The winners were:

EX-A — Bud Williams, 432 Nike Scrip, 365; Bill Pulaski, 320.

EX-B — Sam Kent, 323, Lou Tatsch, 302; Jim Kolessar, 289

Bowman — Herb Gainer, 238 Tom Barkly, 226; Midge Stagi, 139

Archer — Bliss Hvatt, 215, George Fleming, 186; Steve Perok

Junior A — Joe Kolessar, 311

Junior B — Don Porreca, 151; John Coulson, 143, Bob Sotch, 127

Junior C — Dick Merlo, 180.

The club will hold a team shoot next Sunday, beginning at 1.30

Invite Monessen Team into Mon Yough Prep Loop

Harold Ringstad, newly-elected president of the Mon-Yough Prep League, today invited a Monessen team to take part in the 1957 campaign.

Ringstad, who is also in charge of the Lions baseball program in Belle Vernon, said that efforts are being made to secure entries from Monessen, Roscoe, Donora and California.

Already in the league are teams from Belle Vernon, Charleroi, West Newton and Jacobs Creek-Smithton.

The league is for boys in the 15-17 age classification

Prep League has its headquarters in Munhall. It is a fast growing baseball movement with 80 league now operating in 20 states.

Plans are being made to open the valley season about May 20.

Ringstad, who succeeded Dr. Harold Snowden of Smithton, as president, said the next meeting will be held on Wednesday, April 24, at 8 p. m. in West Newton.

Interested teams should have representatives present at that time

Big Leaguers to Use Drugs to Stay Calm

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—If the firebrands of baseball are caught yawning on the basepaths this season don't be surprised

Should Russ (The Mad Monk) Meyer or mercurial Bobby Bragan calmly shrug off bad calls, don't be trapped with your eyebrows up. There's a reason.

Miltown'

Baseball fans may be as excitable and frustrated as ever but due to wide use of the prescription drug in major league camps the players may be the most relaxed athletes in history Team physicians have seized on it as a muscle relaxant, anti-spasmodic and tension-easer.

Helps With Sleep

A number of teams used Miltown this spring to calm overanxious rookies and veterans subject to pre-game "nerves" players who have difficulty sleeping on trains and those who can't sleep because of "replaying" close contests

The Philadelphia Phillies have been accused by some of being a bit too tranquil to start with So Dr Thomas F McTear, the team physician, explains that he prescribes it for the one-time Whiz Kids as an anti - spasmodic to combat sore muscles and tendon inflammation

Cincinnati trainer Wayne Anderson lists the Redlegs' use of the drug as three-fold: to treat sore backs, for players who have difficulty sleeping on trains and as a muscle spasm preventative

Jack Homel the Detroit Tiger trainer, is another who uses Miltow as an anti-spasmodic. One of the Tigers' top pitchers was bothered by leg cramps after running and the drug relieved this condition, he said.

Yankees Don't Need 'Em

Bob Bauman, the Cardinal trainer, asserted that St. Louis used the drug to relieve the depression of players in batting slumps. Cardinal pitchers also receive it before a game if they are inclined to be nervous — and you might make something out of that when you consider the records of some of those Cardinal pitchers.

One team which doesn't use Miltown is the world champion New York Yankees

"We don't need 'em" said trainer Gus Mauch "We're not dense It's the clubs chasing us when get the hitters. Not even Casey Stengel needs 'em but then he's the most relaxed one of us all"

So, while nobody may catch the Yankees at least the rest of the league figures to get a good summer's sleep And stop that cheering You wanna wake up the outfielders?"

MHS Trackers at Redstone Tuesday

Coach Cliff Jones' Monessen High track team will appear at Redstone for a meet tomorrow beginning at 2 45 p m

The inexperienced Greyhound trackers opened their season last week at Brownsville. They scored only 17 2-3 points in that show.

However Monessen is expected to do a little better tomorrow.

Sugar Hart in Bout Tonight

NEW YORK (UP)—Al (Sugar) Hart of Philadelphia, boxing's 1956 "rookie of the year" who suffered a costly upset in his last bout, will try to regain a spot in the welterweight rankings tonight by beating Willie (Pineapple) Stevenson in a widely-televised bout at St Nicholas Arena.

Hart, who dropped a surprise unanimous decision to Walter Byars at Madison Square Garden, was a solid favorite over Stevenson in the 10-rounder starting at 10 30 p m . . est.

Stevenson, making his New York and television debut, has a 32 bout pro record of 27 victories, including a decision over Byars, and five losses. He's scored only five kayos.

Ozarks Begin Practice Today

The Monessen Ozarks will begin practice tonight at Ninth Street Park in preparation for the upcoming Mon Valley League baseball season.

Manager Tony Mascetta's boys were scheduled to open workouts over the weekend but chilly temperatures spoiled things.

Tonight's activity will begin at 5:30 p. m. The Ozarks also have a drill scheduled for tomorrow at 6.

North, East in Bowling Sweeps

North blanked the West and East swept over the South in Bal and Chain League bowling over the weekend

Top women scorers were Jean DeGregorio, 158-385 Lee Loules, 131-346, and Velma Harrison, 150-341 Top male scorers were Bob McKeever, 210-585, Mike Adamio 206-580, Joe McGraw, 180-510, and Coon Ranalle, 181-501

Standings show North 21-12 West, 20-13, East, 16-17, and South 9-24.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Address Position Is Half the Battle

The posture of the body as you address the ball for a golf shot should be comfortable and reasonably erect. A crouching position won't do you much good.

The weight should be distributed evenly, with extra weight back through the heels. The force of the downswing pulls the body forward, causing you to hit the ball in the neck of the club instead of in the center of the clubface; extra weight through the heels will counter-act this forward pull.

The knees at address should be slightly bent, or flexed, and should remain so throughout the swing.

The posterior should protrude slightly as you stand to the ball for a shot, as if you were about to sit down on a high stool. This position helps you keep the weight back through the heels and will help give your arms and elbows room to pass through on the downswing.

The back should be generally straight, giving you the erect posture referred to at the beginning.

There should be a reasonable extension of the arms but don't feel that you are reaching for the ball or that you're over the top of it. The elbows should be as close together as you can comfortably bring them.

This is top-notch golf posture.

Trout Season Opens Today for State Anglers

HARRISBURG (UP)—The 1957 trout season opened today at 5 a.m. throughout the state with 2,500,410 trout scattered in some 4,444 miles of stream and 52 lakes casting wary eyes at anglers' offerings.

Thousands of fishermen turned out in chilly but clear weather to line streams in many cases still swollen by late spring rains which for a time had threatened a washout of the season opening. High waters delayed stocking of some streams by the state Fish Commission but all waters on the approved list received their quota of trout by Saturday.

The trout season is one month longer than last year's—extending to midnight Sept. 2. Anglers are restricted to a daily limit of eight fish with a minimum length of six niches.

Same Limit

Tht lake trout and salmon season, which also opened today and extends to Nov. 30 has the same daily limit but no minimum size on catches.

Parts of 15 streams will be restricted to "fly fishing only" this year at the request of sportsmens' groups and property owners. An estimated 52 miles of stream were cited where only srtificial flies and streamers and conventional fly fishing were permitted.

Fish wardens in the central Pennsylvania counties of Cumberland, Lebanon and York predicted generally low catches on trout streams in the area because of the high waters which were expected to carry a number of fish down stream.

Fewer Trout

Trout stockings were 400,000 fewer than last season but Dewey Sorenson, hatchery superintendent said the fish would amount to the same weight as last year. A newly inaugurated policy of lessening the time between stocking and the season opening also was expected to make more fish available for the hook than in previous years.

Fishing will slack off in most streams after today while the anglers wait for re-stocking. There were still 600,000 trout in the hatcheries waiting to be distributed on an in-season basis scheduled for completion by June 30. Some stocking after that date will be made on an experimental basis.

More Streams

Some 348 additional miles of trout streams were made available for stocking this year as the result of stream surveys by the commission biologists at the request of sportsmen's clubs.

Reclamation of Upper Woods Pond in Wayne County gave anglers a new lake for trout fishing. The water was restocked with trout after reclamation last year by the use of rotenone.

Some 93,000 trout of those stocked this year were donated by the Fish and Wildlife Service to partially replace the 135,000 trout killed by pollution at Spring Creek, near State College. The federal contributions made available from the West Virginia and New York hatcheries averaged eight inches in length.

Cards First in Eagles Bowling

Cardinals blanked the Orioles and Bluejays whitewashed the Robins in Eagles Ladies League bowling last night.

The Cardinals thus finished first in the second half race, barely nudging out the Bluejays.

The Cards will now meet the Orioles, first half champs, in a best-of-five series on Saturday, April 27.

Scoring leaders were Ann Lombardo, 155-432; Helen Wolford, 148-414; Mary Teska, 146-363; Ruth Koget, 124-363; Elizabeth Rich, 123-333; Rose Mary Knox, 115-325.

Standings show Cardinals, 33-12; Bluejays, 32-13; Robinson, 15-30; and Orioles, 10-35.

Celtics Finally Win Pro Title; Embark on Tour

BOSTON (UP) — The world champion Boston Celtics tonight begin an exhibition tour through the Midwest to display the talent that won for them the National Basketball Association championship.

The Celtics, still exultant over their thrilling 125-123 seventh game victory over the St. Louis Hawks here Saturday counted honors galore today.

Guards Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman were named Sunday night to the NBA's All-Star team for 1956-57. Tommy Heinsohn was selected as rookie of the year. Each of the trio receives a $200 check with the accolade.

The Celtics furnished Boston with its first world championship team in 16 years.

Cousy, who averaged 22 points throughout the seven playoff games and broke the single game assist record, received the most votes in the All-Star balloting by sportswriters and sportscasters.

Heinsohn rammed a total of 37 points through the nets in the final double overtime exhauster at Boston Gardens Saturday. Another Celtics rookie, Frank Ramsey, racked up 10 points in the overtime alone to insure the Celtics' first championship.

Turners Clinch 2nd Half Title In Center's Loop

Turners clinched the second half title in the Center's City Bowling League on Saturday even though they dropped a pair of games to the Elks.

Italian Hall finished second — a scant game behind — by sweeping over No. 3 Maintenance. In another match, the Cro-Ams whitewashed Aquarium.

The Turners will now meet Italian Hall, first half champ, in the title rolloff on Saturday, April 27.

Scoring leaders on Saturday included Joe Bafile, 250-642; Joe Shephard, 184-511; Steve Beck, 223-606; Reggie Szabo, 211-572; Bill Valko, 179-516; and Tony Strauss, 223-532.

Fnial second half standings show Turners, 33-12; Italian Hall, 31-14; Cro-Ams, 27-18; Elks, 26-19; No. 3 Maintenance, 15-30; and Aquarium, 3-42.

Scoring records for the season were set by the Turners, 998 and 2813 team totals; and Skeets Jones, 267 and 671 individual totals.

The annual league banquet will be held on May 4 in the New Italian Hall.

Watkins to Head Coaches Group

Bill Watkins, popular basketball coach at California High School, was elected president of the Washington County Coaches Association Saturday at a meeting in the Nemacolin Country Club.

A graduate of California High and CSTC, Watkins succeeds Dave Ullom, of Midway.

Other officers include: Guido Scarton, first vice president; Al DeLucia, second vice president; James Clark, secretary-treasurer; Al Cree and Ross Resciniti, board of control.

It was announced that the Washington County all-star grid squad will practice at Canonsburg in preparation for its August game against Fayette at the Wash High Stadium.

What, No Dixie?

NEW YORK (UP)—Some polite but confused foreign visitors to the United States World Trade Fair stood firmly at attention Sunday while a lobby carillon played "Yankee Doodle."

Marlene Hagge Leads in Dallas Open Tournament

DALLAS, Tex. (UP)—Marvelous Marlene Bauer Hagge set her sights on two goals today as she teed off for the final 36 holes of the $7,500 Dallas Women's Open golf tournament.

With a two-stroke lead on the rest of the field, her prime concern was to hold on to the top spot and grab her second straight title along the tournament trail.

But also within range was the ladies' PGA 27 - hole tournament scoring record of 279 set earlier this season by Mary Lena Faulk in the St. Petersburg Open.

The sharp-featured Mrs. Hagge, playing with the precision that carried her to the money-winning title last year, had a four-under par 138 on the scoreboard through the first two rounds and needed only a 141 or better in today's two rounds to wrest the record away from Miss Faulk.

Marlene rammed home four long birdie putts Sunday to go with 14 pars for a 34-33—67 over the Glen Lakes Country Club course. She had fired a par 36-35—71 over the 6,218-yard layout Thursday before rain and cold stymied competition Friday and Saturday.

Cleveland Nears Hockey Crown

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UP)—The Cleveland Barons today stand only one game away from their eighth American Hockey League Calder Cup championship

The Barons swept a two-game week end set from the Rochester Americans to take a 3-1 hold on the best-of-seven final playoffs Cleveland, on the strength of two-goal outputs by Johnny McLellan and Cal Stearns, defeated Rochester, 6-3, Sunday night.

Cleveland never was headed Sunday night as Stearns and McLellan gave the Ohioans a 2-0 first period lead. Other Baron goals were by Gordon Vejprava and rookie Bo Elik. Bronco Horvath scored twice for the Americans and Earl Balfour once.

Bragan Predicts First Division Finish for Pirates This Season

By RUDY CERNKOVIC

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Bobby Bragan, who qualified as a trust-buster in his freshman season as Pittsburgh Pirate manager in 1956, acted like a rebel mathematician today.

Nationwide polls by baseball writers rate the Pirates a fifth place team this year, but Bragan said figures lie.

"That No. 5 means No. 4," Bragan said in reaffirming his winter prediction that the Pirates would be in first division when the 1957 campaign closes. But he crossed his fingers at the mention of the St. Louis Cardinals who are a first division contender.

The Pirates held a four-year monopoly on the National Leage cellar but Bragan proved to be a "trust buster" when he led the team to a seventh place finish last year.

Out of Cellar

"We were in sixth place the last day of the season, but the Dodgers beat us and we dropped a notch," Bragan recalled. "We had the satisfaction of avoiding the cellar for the first time since 1951. The only direction we recognize now is — up."

The Pirates were a mid-season sensation last year when they held a brief title to first place. During that delicious period Dale Long set a new major league record when he hit eight homes runs in eight consecutive games.

The Pirates open their current campaign stronger at second base, centerfield and third base, than they were at opening day 1956. Bill Mazeroski, a sure-fingered rookie joined the Pirates in July and immediately won the second base post.

The acquisition of Bill Virdon in a trade with the Cardinals last June bolstered the center field slot and the switch of Frank Thomas to third gave added punch to the infield.

With the return of Paul Smith from service and Danny Kravitz winning a catching assignment, the Pirates have left - handed pinch-hitting power along with Bob Skinner and Johnny Powers who were around last year.

The Pirates start their bid for first division Tuesday in a lid-lifter at Forbes Field against the New York Giants. Bob Friend, 17-17 pitcher last season, will oppose Giant southpaw Ace Johnny Antonelli.

Spring "Champions"

The Pirates won the "championship" of the Grapefruit League with 20 victories against 10 defeats.

Pittsburghers will have a preview of the 1957 Pirates who parade through downtown streets today. The present Pirates will be driven in spanking new convertibles and the team stars of the past will ride in cars that were favorites of another generation.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles are hosts at a "welcome home Pirates" dinner tonight. Movie comedian Joe E. Brown, father of Pirate General Manager Joe L. Brown, will be toastmaster.

Vernon (Lefty) Gomed, all-time Yankee pitcher and a banquet favorite will be a speaker and tenor Morton Downey will entertain 900 guests.

Gov. George M. Leader, Pirate president John Galbreath and former Pirate President William E. Benswanger and Bragan will be on the speakers' roster.

The first annual Eagle award to the "outstanding Pirate in Spring Training" will be presented.

Mayors from communities throughout Western Pennsylvania and several from Ohio and West Virginia have accepted invitations from Maurice Splain Jr., banquet chairman.

Pirates Windup Grapefruit Champs Despite 4 to 3 Loss

By UNITED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Pirates are champions of the 1957 Grapefruit Circuit.

Despite their 4-3 loss to Detroit Sunday, Bobby Bragan's crew finished the spring with a record of 20 victories and 10 defeats against major league opposition. Jim Finigan's two-run homer provided the Tigers' margin of victory in Sunday's game at Charleston, W.Va.

Cleveland topped the American League clubs with a 19-14 record after nipping Milwaukee, 5-4, at Milwaukee. Al Smith's three-run homer was the key blow for the Indians.

Brooklyn, which finished last among National League teams with a 16-17 slate, wound up its exhibition season with a 2-1 victory over the Yankees at Yankee Stadium. Southpaw Johnny Podres was credited with the triumph.

Bill Taylor's two-run homer in the 11th inning powered the Giants to a 6-5 victory over the Orioles at Baltimore, Md., while the Phillies defeated the Red Sox, 4-2, at Boston with southpaw Curt Simmons receiving credit for the triumph.

The Cubs swept their two-game city series with the White Sox, beating the American Leaguers, 4-1, on a combined three-hit effort by Tom Poholsky, Dave Hillman and Vito Valentinetti.

The Cardinals and Athletics split a doubleheader at St. Louis, with the Redbirds taking the opener, 7-3, and Kansas City winning the nightcap, 1-0.

Cincinnati wound up its training season with a 4-2 victory over Louisville of the American Assn. while Richmond of the International League crushed the Washington Senators, 12-4.

High School Principal Raymond Barker and Supervising Principal Robert VanBremen of the Bellmarette Joint Schools took part in the program along with several members of the faculty.

Two Swedish Officials Are Held for Spying

STOCKHOLM (UP)—The Defense Ministry announced today that two government workers—a naval draftsman and an official of neutral Sweden's Atomic Energy Commission—have been arrested as spies for the Russians.

A spokesman said the secrets the two men are suspected of betraying to the Soviet Embassy concerned "conventional military questions" rather than Sweden's atomic energy program.

The official announcement identified one of the prisoners as Robert F. Damstedt, an assistant secretary of the local AEC. The other was described merely as a "military official."

Informed sources said the second man works in the naval bureau that processes important blueprints—including the plans of new submarines.

Family of Five Burns to Death

OCEANSIDE, Calif. (UP) — A Los Angeles family of five was burned to death Sunday in a flaming automobile crash eight miles north of here.

California Highway Patrol officers said the dead were David L. Nieto, 33; his wife, Leonore, 29; and their three children, Andrea, 5; Arturo, 10 months and David Jr, 2

Officers said Nieto apparently had slowed down because of a flat tire and his car was struck from behind by another vehicle. The car carrying the family immediately burst into flames and spun into a ditch.

The victims were trapped when the gas tank of their car exploded. Their bodies were burned beyond recognition.

The driver of the second car, James Edward Dringenberg, 18, of Anaheim, Calif, and a passenger, Donald Wayne Voght, 19, of El Monte, Calif., escaped with minor injuries.

Woman's Society in Election; Hears Talk on Missions

Mrs. Fred Stockton, devotional and program leader for the April meeting of the Woman's Society for Christian Service, gave a talk on "Indians in need of Home Missions".

Mrs. Sadie Paegart,, president of the society, presided at the business meeting and annual election. Mrs. George Roy, on behalf of the nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Wellington Baldwin and Mrs. Willard Auther, presented the following slate that was unanimously accepted by the society.

Mrs. Edwin Hindmarsh, president; Mrs. Frank Devers, vice president; Mrs. Clyde Wyatt, treasurer; Mrs. Willard Auther, recording secretary; Mrs. Christian Dryer, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Alfred Makepeace, promotion secretary; Mrs. Roy Mossburg, secretary of missionary education and service; Mrs. Clarence Young and Mrs. Read Brightwell, co-chairmen of Christian social relations.

Mrs. Richard Evans, secretary of student work; Mrs. Richard Auther, children's work; Mrs. Fred Stockton, spiritual life; Mrs. Lillie Roy, literature and publication; Mrs. Robert Stimmell, supply work, and Mrs. George Roy, status of women.

Mrs. Brightwell announced progress of plans for the annual Spring Festival to be held Thursday, April 25 in the church sanctuary and social rooms. Members of the Music Department of California State Teachers College will be heard in excerpts from the "King and I."

In the social rooms booths will be arranged by the committees previously assigned to such booths as candy, baked good, handwork, parcel post, novelties and miscellaneous.

Flowers for Easter services are being arranged by Mrs. Wyatt.

A request was read from Young Adults of the church for the use of the church organizations.

At the conclusion of the business meeting a social hour was enjoyed. Hostesses were: Mrs. Norman Humphries, Mrs. Charles Hough, Mrs. Cora Jamison and Mrs. Charles Humphries.

Local Churches Begin Special Services Here

Holy Week services sponsored by the Fayette City Community Ministerial Association got under way with the evening service in the Methodist Church last evening.

The pastor of the Church of Christ, Mr. John Bowers, was speaker. Tonight's service will be in the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints and the speaker is, Rev. William Horn, formerly of Charleroi. Mr. Horn is leaving shortly for a four year term in the mission field.

Tomorrow's service will be in the First Presbyterian Church, the Rev. D. Earl Daniel speaking. Wednesday evening the service will be in the Church of Christ, Mr. Bowers in charge. On Thursday evening, each of the four participating churches will hold services, some a special commemoration to the Last Supper.

On Friday the three hour Good Friday Service will be held in the Methodist Church beginning at noon. Local ministers and visiting speakers will participate in the service.

Rev. Ivan E. Lay

District Church To Open Special Services Tonight

The Rev. Ivan E. Lay will be the speaker this evening at the missionary convention in the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church in Brownstown.

The Rev. Mr. Lay went to Borneo in 1952, and has been visiting the Taggal Tribe of 9,000 Dyaks.

The area around Long Berang where he has been stationed is located 160 miles up the Sesayap River from the coast and was the district from which the Rev. John Willfinger left to surrender himself to the Japanese rather than endanger the Christian Dyaks, who wished to protect him. The Rev. Mr. Willfinger later died a martyr's death.

There is reason to believe that the Taggal Dyaks will develop into genuine Christians such as those Dyaks who were the first converts there and now compose 52 self-supporting, self-governing and self-propagating churches of the Christian and Missionary Alliance.

Among these Christians the Rev. Mr. Lay's ministry is mainly as advisor and counsellor to the Dyak District Committee and to conduct short-term Bible Schools for the Dyak pastors who had limited training in preparatory Bible School and later will enter the Centeral Bible School.

The public is invited to the meeting which will begin at 7:30 p. m.

Gerald B. Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lane, of Fayette City, R. D., is home from Columbia University for Easter vacation. On his return next Friday, he will be accompanied by his parents, brother Tom, and grandfather, Greer Hare, who will spend Easter weekend in New York City.

Not So Typical

BIRMINGHAM, England (UP)—Mrs. Mary Evans was fined $5.60 for attacking a teacher who gave her 12-year-old daughter a poor grade. She was charged with hitting the teacher with a basket, pulling her hair and knocking her across her desk. Mrs. Evans recently was honored by a television program as a "typical housewife."

Thomas Kilgallen Ex-Pittsburgh Councilman, Dies

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Thomas Kilgallen, former president of City Council, died Sunday in Homestead Hospital of cancer.

Kilgallen, 64, had been ill for seven years. He was taken to the hospital 16 days ago.

A lawyer and one-time Republican, Kilgallen was elected to the state Senate in 1936 on the Democratic ticket. He did not make his political mark until 1932 when he bolted the GOP.

As a Democrat, Kilgallen served in several public offices. He was appointed assistant to U.S. Atty. Horatio S. Dumbalud in 1934, and two years later defeated state Sen. James Coyne in the race for the 43rd Senatorial District.

Kilgallen resigned his Senate seat in 1937 to become assistant city solicitor. He was elected to City Council in 1940 to fill a vacancy caused by the death of P.J. McArdle.

Kilgallen's political career began a decline in 1950 when he was indicted in connection with a "free work" investigation in Pittsburgh. He was never brought to trial, but the following year did not seek re-election.

Needed Motor Bike

LOS ANGELES (UP)—A bicycling burglar picked the wrong victim Sunday. Clarence Porter, 60, caught up quite handily on a borrowed bicycle and turned the suspect, William Bullock, 41, over to police. Porter is a former amateur bicycle champion.

Steel Industry Faced With 'Profit Squeeze'

CLEVELAND (UP)—The steel industry will be gripped with a "profit squeeze" during the coming year if the trend of the first quarter continues, Steel Magazine said today.

The metalworking weekly reported that steel producers and fabricators and suppliers to the industry generally predict a prosperous year, but do not expect increased profits margins to match the sales increase.

Of 45 metalworking companies announcing preliminary figures or estimates for the first quarter, Steel pointed out, 30 say sales will be as good or better than the corresponding quarter of last year. Only 25 per cent expect profits to follow suit.

The cause cited was a "rolling adjustment within the economy which is becoming accepted as normal. Steel producers—currently operating at about 90 per cent of capacity—were said to be relying on more efficient production and elimination of costly overtime coupled with higher prices for steel.

Non-ferrous companies were reported suffering from reduced demand and lower prices for some metals, especially copper. Home appliance manufacturers and producers of other home products were reported declining because of the lower rate of housing starts and scattered competitive price pressures.

Heavy equipment producers were reportedly still expanding, with one of 13 reported firms showing a sales decline in the first quarter.

Steel said the outlook for producers of farm equipment is brightened by four factors: Improved irrigation and conservation techniques which are reducing effects of drought; farmers increased buying with elections out of the way and some degree of certainty about administration farm policies; a weakening farm price resistance because of increasing replacement needs; and adjustment to a peacetime market which becomes more "realistic."

The industrial capacity continues on an expanding pace, Steel said.

Republic Steel Corp. in Cleveland is investing some 166 million dollars to increase its annual ingot capacity by nearly two million tons. The project will near completion this year. Facilities improvements include two new large open hearth furnaces in Cleveland, two electric furnaces in Warren, Ohio, and conversion of an electric furnace to top charging in the Chicago plant.

The publication predicted that, if the first quarter's trend continues, the industry will lose only about 20 million man-days by strike idleness, compared with more than 22 million days lost in the good years of 1951 and 1954.

The first ice cream plant was established in Washington and still operates.

Man Watches as Bride Is Killed

MARATHON, Fla. (UP)—A Miami man watched helplessly Sunday night as a light plane crashed and burned, killing his bride of two weeks and the pilot.

Buddy Young said his wife, Lavergne, 27, had arranged for pilot Thurman Riley, 44, of Miami, to "buzz" low over the lodge where the Youngs work as a signal for him to meet them at the airport.

The plane hit a high - voltage cable, slammed to the ground and burned. Mrs. Young and Riley were killed instantly.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday, April 16, at 9 a. m. from the funeral home, with additional services to follow at 9:30 from the St. Hyacinth R. C. Church, Monessen. Rev. Joseph I. Nowakowski will be in charge. Interment will be in the St. Hyacinth Cemetery, Edwin Melenzyer, funeral director.

LORENZI — Anthony, 59, of 532 Isabelle Ave., North Charleroi, died April 14, 1957, at 4:45 a. m. in Columbia Hospital, Pittsburgh. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jane Frances Lorenzi; his mother, Mrs. Erminia Pellegrini Lorenzi, of Charleroi; two sons, Donald, of Chicago and Armand, at home; four daughters, Mrs. Vincent (Florence) LaRiccia, of Monessen; Mrs. Mario (Enice) Carcella, of Charleroi, R. D. and Clarinda and Antonietta, at home; three brothers, Dean, of Charleroi; Jordan, of Belle Vernon and Bruno, of Uniontown; two sisters, Mrs. Jean DeGrazzia and Mrs. Bruno Traversari, of Charleroi and eight grandchildren. Friends are being received at the Slezak Funeral Home, Third St. and Fallowfield Ave., Charleroi, where funeral services will be held Wednesday, April 17, at 2 p. m. The Rev. J. Thomas will officiate. Interment will be in Monongahela Cemetery. Francis C. Slezak, funeral director.

STANLEY — John, Sr., 84, of 220 Knox Ave., Monessen, died April 13, at 7 p. m. at his home. Surviving are the following children: Mrs. Emma Kelly, and John Stanley, of Monessen; William, of Canonsburg, Herman, Freda and Fred Carl, all at home and Mrs. Minnie Saylor, of Donora; 10 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. Friends are being received at the late home, where brief funeral services will be held Wednesday, April 17, at 1:30 p. m. Additional services will follow at 2 o'clock from the Christ Lutheran Church in Monessen, with the Rev. Henry Young officiating. Interment will be in Grandview Cemetery. Stephen D. Yoney, funeral director.

2 Card of Thanks

HANCOCK — We wish to thank the many thoughtful friends who extended us kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of Mrs. Ida E. Hancock. Floral tributes, contributions to her favorite charities, expressions of sympathy, spiritual comfort, and the help of all those who assisted with funeral services will be remembered with gratitude.
Dr. Reginald A. Hancock and children, Niemela and Passoja Families

2 Card of Thanks

In loving memory of our dearest mother and grandmother, Concetta Tineri, who passed away 10 years ago today, April 15, 1947.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well.
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
'Twas just ten years ago today
Our hearts were made to weep
As we watched our beloved mother pass away
Into that quiet sleep.
Beautiful memories of you so dear
We cherish still with love sincere.
A day that comes with sad regret
And one that we will never forget.
We love you still, no tongue can tell.
How deep, how dearly and how well.
Sadly missed by her children and grandchildren, Nello A. Tineri, Mr. and Mrs. James Tineri and children; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mendicino and daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Mike Yelletz and children

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Edna Lorraine Cheroki, who passed away 10 years ago today, April 15, 1947.
Although you are in heaven,
We feel you're always near.
You left so many happy memories,
For those you loved so dear.
Your love was endless,
Like heaven up above
And we are ever thankful,
God gave us you to love
Sadly missed by Parents and Brothers

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Ellen Nichols who died four years ago today, April 15, 1953.
We lost a Mom with a heart of gold
Who is more to us than wealth untold.
Without farewell she fell asleep
With only memories for us to keep.
We have lost but God has gained
One of the best mothers the world contained.
Sadly missed by daughters and son-in-law, Sarah and George Meyer and Mary Ellen and Harry Gush and Children

In loving memory of Mrs. Ellen Nichols, who died four years ago today, April 15, 1953.
When life threatens to make us blue,
We cling to a memory to carry us through.
Feeling that somewhere you are standing by
Ready to help when you hear us cry
And so dear mother our life of love
Is a precious treasure from Heaven above.
Your grave we tend with loving care
For part of our heart is buried there.
Sadly missed by Son and Daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Nichols

Scientists Say Safer Cigarettes Are Possible

CHICAGO (UP) — A leading cancer research scientist has disclosed that recent experiments have indicated it is possible to manufacture a cigarette with greatly reduced cancer potentialities.

Dr. Ernest L. Wynder of the research unit of the Sloan-Kettering Institute's Memorial Center for Cancer and Allied Diseases said that although tests still are going on the results thus far point the way toward the manufacture of a safer cigarette.

Wynder told the 48th annual meeting of the American Association for Cancer Research that three steps must be taken to produce such a cigarette.

An "effective" filter must be designed for the removal of tobacco tars.

The burning temperature of the cigarette must be reduced.

The waxy coating from raw tobacco must be removed.

Wax Easily Removed

Dr. Wynder pointed out that the waxy coating of the tobacco leaf is a major source of the cancer-causing substances contained in tobacco and can easily be removed from the tobacco leaf by a washing process.

Experiments currently are being conducted by Dr. George Wright of the University of Toronto to test the cancer-causing activity of cigarettes made from tobacco from which the waxy coating has been removed. He did not disclose when the results of Dr. Wright's experiments would be made public.

Dr. Wynder said that when the tar obtained from the waxy coating is burned at 880 degrees—the temperature of a burning cigarette — it has a very high cancer-producing activity.

Pat Carroll Says She's Performer, not Comic

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—Pat Carroll, whose clowning on the Sid Caesar Show won her an Emmy award, would like to set the record straight—she's not a comic.

"I think of myself as a performer. And what I do best are character sketches," said Pat. "I'm not even sure that I think of myself as a 'comedienne.' A comedienne, I think, is a lady who creates most of her own material. I'm not creative that way.

"I don't think of myself as Pat Carroll that hysterically funny woman. Unlike, say, Martha Raye, I can't get up and hold an audience by myself. I'm not humble pie about it, it's just that I cant' get up and clown. They have to put words in my mouth and once they give me the words and the character, why, I can go out and do it."

She's On Loan

Pat, at 29, has emerged as perhaps the brightest new star of the current TV season. Actually, she is not a freshman in the funny business. Since 1949, Pat has been working the nightclub and borscht belt circuits. During one season in the long ago, she played Red Buttons' girl friend on TV.

"I don't know how I landed on the Caesar show," said Pat who plays Howie Morris' wife on the TV hour. "I'm under contract to NBC (she has two years to go on a five-year pact) and I'm kind of on a loan-out to Sid.

"I didn't even think Sid knew I existed when he called me up and asked me if I wanted to be on his show. That was last January, February or March. I didn't even see him again until rehearsals in the fall."

The Right Outlet

The future of the Caesar show on NBC is uncertain and Sid only has until the end of May to pick up Pat's option. "If Sid does stay on, I'd love to stay with him," said Pat. "This is probably the happiest season I've ever had. And I think this is the one outlet for the type of sketch I do.

One of the wonderful things is working with Howie Morris in those song and dance numbers. We're given complete autonomy. And I like working with somebody—they can throw things at you, you know, when you're out there alone."

Pat's Emmy, awarded for best supporting TV actress, is sitting on a shelf. "I didn't really know what to do with it," she said. "I put it in the baby's playpen, but he wouldn't teeth on it. So I've got it up there next to a trophy for being an outstanding girl over four years in high school.

"Actually, neither I nor my husband (agent Lee Karsian) thought I had a chance of winning. So before the Emmy awards, he went out and had a beautiful scroll made for me—choosing me as the wife and mother of the year. We call it the Karsian Award."

Your Health—

Taking Life Easier Helps Hypertension

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Hypertension, or high blood pressure, a widespread ailment on this day of the income tax deadline, is our most common chronic complaint. It causes more disability and death than any other single disease.

Actually, there is no need to be unduly fearful of this disorder. By recognizing the symptoms, obtaining prompt medical attention and by following your doctor's advice (among other things to take life easier) you can as a rule live a fairly normal life without much danger.

Now I don't want you performing a diagnosis on yourself. Even a doctor has difficulty diagnosing high blood pressure from symptoms alone. He must conduct an extensive examination before he is able to determine definitely whether you have hypertension.

While the following symptoms might or might not mean that you have hypertension, they usually indicate that something may be wrong. Very often it is high blood pressure.

Most common and most incapacitating symptom is frequent headaches. Although a headache may occur at any time of the day, generally those due to hypertension are around when you wake in the morning.

Headaches can be especially dangerous to a person with high blood pressure. Often they make a person tense and irritable. And this can lead to still higher blood pressure.

A feeling of lightheadedness or dizziness may be an indication of hypertension. Generally, though, this particular symptom in itself isn't cause for too much worry.

Both physical and emotional fatigue frequently are signs of early hypertension.

So is blushing, especially when it is accompanied by perspiration and palpitation of the heart.

While these symptoms may mean that you have high blood pressure, they don't reveal the extent of your trouble. That's a job for your doctor.

Eden Hopes for Good Recovery

BOSTON (UP) — Sir Anthony Eden has "reasonable prospects" of a complete recovery from the recurring illness which forced his retirement as British prime minister, his physician said today.

Dr. Richard B. Cattell of the Lahey Clinic, Eden's surgeon, said his general condition was satisfactory and that he withstood well surgery Saturday. Dr. Cattell said Eden suffered a mild fever Sunday, but that it was a normal post-operative condition.

Saturday was the fourth time in as many years that the 59-year old diplomat had undergone major surgery to relieve a bile duct obstruction. Dr. Cattell said there were "reasonable prospects" of complete recovery after the operation.
